U. S. FLEET SINKS 5 JAP SHIPS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Asiatic fleet has sunk three enemy transports and two large Japanese cargo vessels in the Far East.

These sinkings, announced today by the Navy, brought to a total of 24 the number of Japanese warships and non-combatant vessels sunk by the United States Navy and Marine forces.

The Navy communique, based on reports received up to 9 a.m., (E. S. T.), today, reported the submarine menace to the northeast coast of the United States "remains unchanged."

The Navy gave no names or identification of the five Japanese ships sent to the bottom.

The Japanese are "systematically looting and devastating the entire countryside," Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported to the War Department today.

He also said the Japs are now employing veteran shock troops and dive bombers in an effort to wipe out the American-Philippine forces which he commands.

In a communique describing the Japanese offensive in the Bataan region, the department said ground fighting continues all along the front and in addition attack planes and dive bombers are being used to blast American-Filipino artillery positions and troops.

The Japs, meanwhile, continued efforts to infiltrate Gen. MacArthur's lines. Shock troops especially trained for these operations are being used, the War Department disclosed.

Washington military observers conclude that the Japs' infiltration movements are designed to "soften up" defensive positions as a prelude to a full-powered frontal offensive.

Official News

By C. YATES McDANIEL

Rallying around a fresh force of battle-hungry and jungle-wise Australians, the British imperial defenders of Singapore appeared today to have checked the Japanese in their offensive toward this vital Oriental base.

Two Japanese armored units were reported shattered by the stiffened defense all along a shortened front in lower Malaya, aided by considerable aerial support.

While the air force smashed at Japanese truck and railway concentrations near Tampin, 120 miles northwest of Singapore, British Imperials fighting with fresh fury in the coastal strip north of the Malacca plain claimed to have knocked out 14 Japanese tanks and 10 armored vehicles.

An official communique said advance guards of the Australians smashed six more tanks and inflicted heavy casualties in their first battle since the Malayan invasion began in the eastern part of Negri Sembilan state.

BLOW UP BRIDGE

(BBC, quoting a Reuters dispatch on the Malacca coastal strip engagement, said: "An enemy armored column was allowed to advance over a bridge prepared for demolition. When the column passed over the bridge it was blown up and the enemy engaged by artillery. Heavy casualties were inflicted on the Japanese, and they ran for cover." The broadcast was heard in New York by CBS.)

The Australians' first fight occurred in eastern Negri Sembilan state, 120 miles north of Singapore while the main body of the Australians, singing and eager for a fight, moved into battle positions yesterday.

Following yesterday's success, the British command reported, a large force of planes attacked concentrations of Japanese transport and rolling stock on roads and rail-

Russ Blast Hitler Line In Ukraine

By The Associated Press

Masses of Russian tanks were reported smashing today at the gates of German-held Taganrog, 40 miles west of Rostov-on-Don, as Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's armies pressed a general counter-offensive through the Ukraine and tightened a trap on 100,000 Germans in the Crimea.

Russian troops were reported fighting the invaders a few miles from Simferopol, Crimean capital, 40 miles north of Sevastopol on the railroad to the Russian mainland.

Soviet front-line dispatches chronicled an unbroken series of Russian triumphs along the entire 1200-mile battle line from Leningrad to the Black Sea.

In the northeast Ukraine, Red troops were reported heavily assaulting German forces in Kharkov, Russia's "Pittsburgh" of the Donets River industrial basin.

On the central front, the phase "history repeats itself" took on gloomy new significance for the Germans as Red army spearheads, adopting Nazi encirclement tactics, threatened half a dozen "anchor points" on Adolf Hitler's winter defense line.

Russians, who had advanced 100 miles westward from Kulikin in a month, recaptured the Volga river town of Selizharovo, 175 miles northwest of Moscow, out-flanking the Germans at Rzhev.

Rzhev, 50 miles down the Volga river from Selizharovo, was the northern defense bastion protecting the main German salient at Mozhaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow.

U. S. SHIPS, PLANES HUNT SUB WOLF PACK

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 16

By HERBERT CARYL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

The full ruthlessness of the enemy submarine attack on the tanker Norness stood revealed in detail today as Navy surface vessels and aircraft sought to hunt out and destroy the "U-boat" acknowledged to be prowling the New England-New York coastal waters.

Navy ears were glued to sound detectors and Navy aviators strained their vision for some indication on the surface of the sea that would disclose the presence of the enemy submersible.

As the Navy went into action, members of the crew of the Norness were in full agreement that the submarine had attacked without warning. In addition, one member of the crew, Harry Torkvesen, ship's cook, said flatly the sub's crew had machine-gunned them as they struggled on a life raft.

BULLETS MISSED RAFT

"We heard the machine-gun rattle as we pulled away," he said. "The waves were high, hiding our life raft, and the bullets didn't reach us."

Secrecy, of course, covered movements of the Navy in its hunt for the undersea marauder, but it was disclosed that in addition to surface fighting ships, big PBY flying boats and lesser craft, the Navy had placed super-blimps from Lakehurst, N. J., into the chase.

No possibility was being overlooked and shipping was notified that the attack on the Norness probably was not an isolated one, but it was possible that enemy submarines were operating in the

Argentine to Face Test on Axis Today

By JOHN McNIGHT

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 16 (AP) — Indications that Argentina had changed her position and might swing into line with her sister republics in a resolution calling for a break of all relations with the Axis powers were seen today in informed quarters as the conference of American foreign ministers swung into action.

Pre-conference talks between her representatives and other conference leaders, in which Argentina was said to have been brought under considerable pressure by her sister republics, were believed to have averted a deadlock on the issue, one of the most important on the agenda.

The last obstacle to accord, however, was not yet removed. Observers expressed the belief that the border dispute between Peru and Equador left a stumbling block in the path of harmonious action.

TEST VOTE DUE TODAY

Indications were the resolution calling for a 100 per cent break in relations with the Axis would be tested today. It was placed before the conference this morning by Colombia's representative, Gabriel Turbay, ambassador to Washington.

It was believed the resolution condemned the Axis aggression against the United States as an attack on all the Americas, and pledged the American republics not to re-establish relations with the Axis powers separately.

The text of this and other resolutions will not be made public until Monday.

A large factor in influencing Argentina, which earlier had stood out virtually alone against a complete severance of relations, apparently was the position of Central American and Caribbean republics which already have declared war on the Axis.

VOWS ARGENTINE IS LOYAL

Their spokesman indicated they would not consent to compromise on the resolution, whatever action the United States might take.

Their stand apparently was supported by the delegates from Venezuela, Colombia and Mexico, which already have broken relations with Germany, Italy and Japan.

The Cuban delegation was among those which applied this pressure, conferring outside the meeting with Dr. Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, chief of the Argentine delegation.

Opening today's session, acting Chairman Oswaldo Aranha, Brazil's foreign minister, read a letter from

KAI-SHEK HURLS TERRIFIC BLOWS AT JAP-HELD CITIES

Official News Chungking, Jan. 16 (INS)

By C. E. GRAHAM

The Chinese high command said in a communique today "powerful Chinese frontal attacks" were proceeding against Japanese forces around Hwaiyang in northeast Honan province.

A Jap force, attempting to relieve pressure on the walled city, was said to have been intercepted and decimated.

The Japanese military base at Yochow was menaced by Chinese again today as Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies approached within 10 miles.

Pursuing the remnant of the Japanese force which was nearly wiped out at the battle of Changsha, the Chinese troops were said to have taken 1300 more prisoners and destroyed 90 trucks.

A Chinese military spokesman had earlier estimated that of 70,000 Japanese who fought their way to Changsha's outskirts before being routed, 58,000 were killed and wounded and 2000 taken prisoner.

Chinese pursued the remnant close to the Japanese invasion base at Yochow, thus threatening the entire Japanese campaign in Hunan Province of Central China.

Japs Pushing Drive For Bases Before Allied Aid Arrives

By MAJ. GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

Copyright, 1942, N. Y. Tribune, Inc.

We are now seeing the serious strategical results of the Japanese occupation of Davao and of positions on the coast of British Borneo.

Indeed, the pattern of Japanese strategy as a whole is unfolding a little farther. The Japanese, as previously pointed out in these articles, are playing for time. Their purpose is to reduce Luzon and Singapore and get set for an attack in force on Java and Sumatra before the Allies can regain air and naval supremacy in the surrounding waters.

Maj. G. F. Eliot

The farther the Japanese can push out their air bases into the outlying Dutch islands the more time they can gain, for it is already clear that the Allies must be very cautious in operating battleships or aircraft carriers within the radius of action of enemy aviation bombardment.

The successful Japanese attack on Tarakan Island is an example of this strategy. They could hardly have hoped to take over the oil fields in any condition for immediate use. What they wanted was a base of operations covering the Macassar Strait, one of the two principal passages through the Dutch islands toward the Philippines.

The report that a convoy of troop ships, escorted by six heavy cruisers and six destroyers, is going south from Tarakan perhaps suggests that the Japanese are going to seek a further landing on the coast of Dutch Borneo, possibly at Balikpapan, or on the west coast of Celebes. The occupation of Tarakan would be a necessary pre-

Rationed Truck Tires Face Seizure Threat

If trucks and other commercial vehicles are used for such non-essential purposes as pleasure trips, new tires which have been rationed to them may be seized, the state rationing board warned today.

Administrator Thomas M. Joyce ruled that all new tires obtained by truck owners under the rationing set-up must be used solely for the purposes whereby they were given out.

For example, a wholesale delivery truck, equipped with rationed tires, cannot be used for home deliveries, pleasure rides, non-essential errands or any other service not in the eligible classifications.

Violations will be subject to criminal prosecution in addition to seizure of the tires.

The regulations governing private automobiles eligible for new tires are less strict, Joyce disclosed. These cars must be driven "principally" and not "exclusively" for the stipulated purposes, he said.

Meanwhile, Chairman Joseph B. Ely of the rationing board urged in a letter to Price Administrator Leon Henderson at Washington that the quota of tires and tubes for Massachusetts transportation companies, especially bus lines, be increased in order to furnish ample service for defense workers.

BOY, 10, FINDS HE HAS TOO MANY KINFOLK

Donald Severance was back at his home in Worcester today without any new plans to visit relatives, of whom, it seems, he had one too many to fit into his itinerary.

The elder Severance had another relative—Patrolman Herman Blake of the Back Bay station, a cousin—and it was the officer who greeted the boy when he alighted in Park sq. Officer Blake entertained the boy at the Back Bay police station until the lad's father arrived from Worcester to claim him.

Defense Work Delay Punishment Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—A committee report charging that governmental efficiency and private selfishness have seriously retarded America's war production gave immediate rise in the Senate today to demands that those responsible be punished.

The report, in which the Senate defense investigating committee called for drastic reorganization of the office of production management and elimination of "bureaucratic red tape," was submitted to the Senate by Chairman Truman (D.) of Missouri to cover the committee's investigative work during 1941.

Sens. Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan and Norris (Ind.) of Nebraska were among the first to interrupt Truman as he summarized the findings to ask whether criminal or other punitive action could not be taken against those guilty of the "gross inefficiency" which the committee said it found.

"I miss," Vandenberg observed, "the final personification and identification of somebody who ought to be demoted or put in jail."

He asked what happened when individual responsibility for improper administration of the defense program was determined.

"He usually gets a promotion," Truman told him wryly.

DEFENSE HINDERED

Other committee members said the government's auditing services were being counted upon to establish specific responsibility for any wrongful acts, and Sen. Brewster (R.) of Maine added that when the committee had reason to believe criminal actions were involved, the facts were presented to the Department of Justice.

"The committee," the report declared, "has found numerous instances of gross inefficiency and still more instances where the private interests of those concerned have hindered and delayed the defense program. A considerable quantity of supplies and material which we should have today has not been produced and the war effort has been seriously handicapped as a result."

Among the committee's major findings were these:

That there was failure to expand production of many vitally needed war materials, such as copper, lead, zinc and aluminum.

That the armaments program was handicapped by unnecessary strikes, though of late there had been less of this obstruction.

That the automobile industry was permitted to build new plant facilities for defense manufacture, using government funds, instead of converting existing facilities to defense production, thus leaving the industry free to continue automobile production at the highest level since 1929.

Year in Jail For Bad Check Halts Wedding

Wedding plans of Seymour W. Ely, 41, of Cone st., Hartford, Ct., went completely awry in Brookline court today wher he was given a year sentence in the House of Correction after pleading guilty to passing a worthless check for $200.

Judge Daniel A. Rollins was told by police that Ely had a record for check "bouncing" dating back to 1936 when he served a six-month term in the House of Correction on a worthless check count.

He also served 18 months in Wethersfield, Ct., State Prison in 1938, and was convicted at Freehold, N. J., in 1'40, and placed on probation on similar charges.

Police withheld the name of the girl in the case. Ely, police said, explained:

BOEMER PUT ON SPOT BY GOEBBELS-VON RIBBENTROP FEUD

By PIERRE J. HUSS
Copyright, 1942

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—Boemer saw the knife too late. The shock came early in 1940, a few months after Boemer had hit on the idea of organizing and providing a sort of clubhouse where foreign correspondents could always be assured of meals at a low price.

Paul Schmidt enthusiastically agreed and said no more about it. A few months later, at the weekly get-together of an inner ring of foreign correspondents of the first rank, Schmidt sprang a surprise.

Pierre J. Huss

Boemer was not present at the gathering that night and Schmidt, after pledging us to silence, invited us all for a midnight ride.

We halted in front of a gloomy house off the Kurfuerstendamm on Fasanen Strasse and were invited to enter. A burst of light and a lavish club house with expensive easy chairs in red leather carpets an inch thick, a dining room, and an upstairs floor with a bar and billiard room, greeted our astounded eyes.

"Gentlemen of the foreign press, this is your house," said Schmidt. "Herr Ribbentrop places it at your disposal. He will welcome you into it at a formal opening I am planning for next week."

We all went home after the champagne and the sandwiches discussing the unpleasant surprise in store for Boemer.

A few days later, when Schmidt staged his opening party and had Ribbentrop there, Boemer was present. He even added a few words in the name of Goebbels and Dietrich.

From that day on open rivalry flared between Schmidt and Boemer. The old friendship and mutual drinking bouts ended.

Boemer stormed from his own big office in the Propaganda Ministry into that of Goebbels the very next day and demanded to know if Goebbels would stand for that kind of a dirty Ribbentrop trick.

PLANS RIVAL CLUB

Half an hour later he came out of there with a half million marks at his disposal to build the finest club in town. He went to Leipziger Platz and practically confiscated the stately old edifice originally housing the exclusive and aristocratic Imperial Automobile Club, throwing all but 50,000 marks into its rebuilding. The 50,000 he spent in stocking up on French chefs and whole truckloads of fine champagnes and liquors.

He built a bar twice as large and twice as attractive as the one in Paul Schmidt's club; he included a working room for foreign correspondents with telephones, desks, typewriters and instantaneous radio service.

The dining room carried a large bill-of-fare and Boemer, ever the ladies man, and their favorite, Bel Ami, had one room done entirely in green silk, enriched by two grand pianos.

I would eat lunch a couple of times each week in Boemer's club and would spend one evening each week at the bar upstairs, while Saturday nights I reserved for the inescapable drinking bout with cabaret gals and film stars who performed gratis at Schmidt's club.

AVOIDED HIDDEN TRAPS

Schmidt had other tricks up his sleeve. He withdrew from public circulation and surrounded himself with a mantle of dignity and exclusiveness. Boemer on the contrary increased his pace, driven by restless nerves and a crushing daily program of work and high tension. He sought relief in champagne and cognac, hotfooting it around night clubs with a new favorite every week or two.

PAUL GOEBBELS

For a time his new home with his blond little wife and adopted child out in ritzy Grunewald near Berlin helped him keep on an even keel, deftly avoided the hidden traps laid for him time and again over in the Foreign Office.

One night in late February, down in Garmisch-Partenkirchen of Olympic fame, a couple of other American newspapermen and myself in company of Boemer went over to the Alpenhof Hotel.

INTRODUCED TO WOMAN

The town was full of rich men's wives and daughters sent there to escape the bombs at home; all the left-over glamour girls with somebody else's money in their pockets were on hand to liven up the situation.

A friend of Boemer's came over to our table to introduce a woman, neatly dressed but with a long nose giving it just a touch of the hatchet-faced and worst of all she had fish eyes.

Boemer's interest quickened visibly; he always was a passionate addict of the piano and could play everything from the classic to the popular for hours without stopping. He asked the couple to sit down, and it wasn't long before that started things, and a couple of weeks later the girl showed up in Berlin. Bel Ami was definitely in love, a sad case of a man who couldn't keep his passion under cover.

Day after day and night after night he could be seen in his club with this strange new flame.

I told him to his face, and so did faithful old Guido Enderis of the New York Times, that between the liquor and the woman he was bound to crack up.

When Hitler attacked Yugoslavia and Greece in April of 1941, Boemer arranged for the usual trip

On that hard trip I strove with might and main to bring Boemer back to his feet

LOVE SICK MAN

Bel Ami had definitely lost his heart to her, and he mooned and moaned around like a dying calf. Even the hotbed of whispering and speculating going on all around Berlin over Hitler's next move failed to stir the old fire in him.

On the evening of May 15, his old chief Rosenberg asked him to come over to his office right away for an important conference. Boemer went and for a while became his old self when Rosenberg in the intimacy of his oldest and truest co-workers revealed that he had just come from Hitler with an appointment of dictator over all Russia in his pocket.

Yes, it was true.

The day for the attack on Russia was fixed for the not too distant future. The disgraceful bonds made necessary by circumstances before the war of keeping silent on Bolshevist Russia and putting a good face on everything at long last would be broken.

The Nazis there in Rosenberg's office shook hands and wept a few tears. All of them would gain tremendously by the new turn of the tide.

Girl Ex-Aide Says Goebbels Rules Hitler

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Jan. 16 (AP)—Miss Elizabeth Knaust, once a secretary to Dr Paul Joseph Goebbels, says an internal collapse in Germany is extremely unlikely and "those who talk expectantly of such things are being misled by Nazi propaganda."

Miss Knaust

The current shake-up in the German army staff, she told interviewers here, means little "so long as Gen. William von Keitel holds his authority. Gen. von Keitel is the brains behind the whole German military system."

The woman who served on the propaganda minister's staff for about five years called Dr. Goebbels "the brains of the entire Nazi organization."

"Adolf Hitler, in a great many instances, signs on the dotted line," she said. "He signs what Dr. Goebbels has planned, decided upon and written out beforehand."

The explanation of Rudolph Hess' strange flight to England, Miss Knaust believes, was that, as a "definitely anti-Communist" Nazi he was unable to "bear any collaboration between Berlin and Moscow."

Miss Knaust, who says she is "a political refugee," came to the United States in 1938 and took out citizenship papers soon after.

Lombard Stars In Bond Sales

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 16 (AP)—Carole Lombard proved herself a star in salesmanship, too, in the nation's first state-wide war rally.

Carole Lombard

In one crowded hour yesterday in a corridor of the state house, the movie actress sold $2,017,513 worth of defense bonds—at the rate of $560.42 a second.

Last night she and Will H. Hays, president of the motion picture producers and distributors of America, both born Hoosiers, urged an audience of more than 12,000 to buy more bonds.

"People are learning to do without their little luxuries in order to gain victory and peace," Miss Lombard told the audience.

Mexico Charges Japs Plot Oil Well Blasts

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 16 (AP)—Sen. Abel Osequera told the Senate anti-espionage committee he had heard from Tampico that a group of Japanese disguised as Chinese intended to dynamite Tampico oil wells and tanks.

Radio Programs Hit By Wartime Order

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (INS)—The office of censorship today issued a code of wartime practices for radio broadcasters which was drafted by Director Byron Price and Asst. Director J. H. Ryan after conferences with the radio industry.

The government asked some classes of information which might aid the enemy be withheld and that broadcasters exercise careful control over certain types of programs which are "potential espionage tools for the enemy."

Most of the precautions emphasized are being exercised by broadcasters voluntarily, Ryan will be in direct charge of administration of the code, aided by assistants selected from the industry and an advisory council of Price aid:

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS

"In wartime it is the responsibility of every citizen to help prevent the enemy, insofar as possible, from obtaining, war, navy, air or economic intelligence.

"The broadcasting industry has enlisted with enthusiasm in the endeavor, and the following is intended to be helpful in systematizing co-operation on a voluntary basis during teh period of the emergency.

"Two possibilities exist:

"1—Enemy exploitation of stations heard only within our borders, to expedite the work of saboteurs, and

2—Enemy exploitation of stations heard internationally (both short and long wave) to transmit vital information.

The news was broken down into three headings—news programs, music programs and foreign language programs. Most of the regulations were the same as those issued Wednesday night for the press, magazines and other periodicals. The restrictions on movements of troops and ships, production figures, fortifications and the general category of news was the same as the press.

WEATHER BROADCASTS

The weather restrictions include temperature readings, barometric pressures, wind directions, forecasts and all other data relating to weather conditions. Frequent reports will be authorized by the U. S. Weather Bureau but it should be official.

Special care should be taken against references to weather in sports broadcasts. Information concerning road conditions, when it is essential to safeguarding human life, may be broadcast when requested by a federal, state or municipal source.

The time and location of corps graduations or the equipment strength of any training school was added to the press section. Any experiments with war equipment or materials, particularly those relating to new inventions and news of the whereabouts of camouflaged objects were banned.

It was requested no telephoned or telegraphed requests for musical selections be accepted for duration of the emergency and that all mail requests be held for an unspecified length of time before they are broadcast or answered on the air.

MASS MEETINGS

Broadcasts were asked to refuse acceptance of "Lost and Found" announcements and material of a similar nature when it is telephoned or telegraphed by a private individual.

If the case involves a lost person, dog, property or similar matter written notice should be demanded. Emergency announcements asked by police or other authorized sources may be accepted. Announcements of mass meetings should not be carried unless they come from an authorized representative of an accredited governmental or civilian agency in writing.

Quiz programs originating from remote points, either by wire, transcription or short wave where in the group is small, and where in no arrangement exists for investigating the background of the participants, should be discontinued. Included in this category are such productions as man-in-the-street, airport and train terminal interviews.

CAUTION ON FORUMS

In studio-audience type quiz shows where the audience from which interviewees are to be selected number less than 50 people, program conductors are asked to exercise special care.

The code said forums during which comemnts are sought "from the floor" or audience, should demand cautious production.

Special events reporters are advised to avoid specific references to locations and structures in "on the spot" broadcasts following air raids or other enemy offensive action. Both such reporters and commentators should beware of using any descriptive material which might be employed by the enemy in plotting any area for attack.

Total or round figures issued by the government on casualties may be handled and if there is special newsworthiness in the use of an individual name, such as that attending the release concerning Capt. Colin Kelly, it is permissible material. Stations should use own judgment in using names of important personages from their own areas killed in action.

Release of figures on selective service enrollments are banned.

Reports based on information from unidentified sources as to ship sinkings or land troop reverses or successes should not be used. In the event enemy claims have been neither confirmed nor denied by established authority, the story ordinarily should be handled without inclusion of specific information—there should be mention of ship's name, only its classification, there should be no mention of Army unit designation, just its general description.

Information concerning the establishment of new international points of communication should be withheld until officially released. It was requested that full transcripts, either written or recorded, be kept of all foreign language programs; it was suggested that broadcasters take all necessary precautions to prevent deviation from script by foreign language announcers and performers.

SHAKEUP SEEN IN CHURCHILL GOVERNMENT

By WILLIAM J. HUMPHREYS

LONDON, Jan. 16 (AP)—A "drastic reconstruction" of the Churchill government, with emphasis on the war and colonial offices, was forecast today by informed circles to follow the prime minister's return from the United States.

The view in qualified circles is that the prime minister has been "let down" by his advisers on the Oriental situation and that immediate cabinet changes are essential because of setbacks at Malaya.

As minister of defense, Churchill is responsible for all land, sea and air operations.

"Some of Churchill's advisers in the Pacific already have been sacked," one observer pointed out.

But the most sweeping changes, he added, will involve "the political heads for the war office and the colonial office and departments concerned with the military and civil administration in Malaya and other British possessions in the Pacific."

'You Gotta Go,' Editor Finds

TURNERS FALLS, Jan. 16 (AP)—Classified as 1-A in the draft, Editor and Publisher Joseph S. Cotton of the Turners Falls Herald, a 25-month-old weekly newspaper, announced suspension of publication with the assertion:

"When you gotta go, you gotta go."

"Opinion of the passing of the Herald," Cotton said in his final article, "is divided into two schools of thought: those who are sorry to see it go, and those who are damn glad. The former includes persons about whom praiseworthy articles were written; the latter, persons who didn't like what the newspaper said about them."

"The Herald," Cotton added, "enjoyed the distinction of being perhaps the only weekly newspaper in the country which suspended publication whenever the editor felt like having a vacation."

DEFENSE RENT CEILING PUT IN PRICE BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—A wartime ceiling on rents in defense areas was written into the price control bill today by a Senate-House committee attempting to compromise between widely different measures approved by the two chambers.

The rent ceiling would apply to the District of Columbia and any other designated areas where "defense activities have resulted or threaten to result in an increase in rents for housing accommodations inconsistent with the purposes of this act."

The lawmakers explained that local and state authorities would be given first opportunity to put a lid on rents but that federal price officials would have power to step in if they thought necessary. Rents on or about last April 1 were designated as the standard.

FARM PROBLEM NEXT

Both Chairman Brown (D.) of Michigan of the Senate group and Chairman Steagall (D.) of Alabama of the House conferees said they were trying to make "minor adjustments" before tackling provisions which would grant special concessions to farmers.

President Roosevelt has indicted such concessions as a sure road to inflation. The conferees started their second day's work on the legislation today.

Among the provisions already approved was one by Senator George (D.) of Georgia, which would require price-fixing officials to appoint a national "industry advisory committee" with regional units if necessary whenever a substantial portion of any industry subject to price maximums requested this action.

"BUSINESS PRACTICES"

The conference group also approved a "business practices" section which sponsors said would assure exemption of advertising methods and similar practices from the far-reaching powers of the price administrator.

The provisions specified that powers granted under the wartime measure should not be used or made to operate to compel changes in the business practices, except to prevent evasion of any established ceiling.

Senator Brown said the conference group had avoided accepting the period of October 1 to 15 last as a general standard for price control because this was linked directly to the dispute over farm price levels at which controls could apply.

Woman Starts Term For Illegal Surgery

Found guilty by a Suffolk Superior Court jury on a charge of conspiring to perform illegal surgery, Mrs. Ina Plude McCarthy, 53, of Blue Hill pkwy., Milton, today was under sentence to Sherborn Reformatory.

Found guilty on the same charge, George Wagner, 21, of Seaview ave., Malden, was given a suspended sentence to Concord Reformatory and put on probation for three years.

Plea for Phone Rate Probe Turned Down

A petition by Mayor Albert Cole of Lynn calling for an investigation of the rates of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company was turned down today by the Public Utilities Commission on the grounds such a probe would not be "in the public interest" during the war emergency.

Equipment, Not Cash For Towns' Defense

Massachusetts cities and towns will receive defense equipment soon from the federal office of civilian defense instead of obtaining federal grants with which to make purchases, it was announced today by J. Wells Farley, director of the state public safety committee.

CASH IN FOR TIPS—Do you want to win cash or theater tickets? You can if you phone in news tips to the Record-American-Advertiser. Cash awards totaling $50 and 100 theater tickets to the Paramount or Fenway, where Don Ameche's new film, "Confirm or Deny," is now playing, are to be given this week, plus the regular $25 weekly awards.

It is expected that Congress will pass a bill providing $100,000,000 for purchase of defense supplies. This money will be handled by the federal defense office in Washington, where Farley has just completed a three-day conference with defense directors from the other states.

Gas masks, medical supplies, helmets, cots, stretchers, firemen's clothing and light fire-fighting equipment are among the items to be available.

Director Farley also announced that a double program for salvage of metals, paper and other materials needed for war defense industries will start in Massachusetts soon.

A special committee will supervise the gathering of salvaged materials from industrial plants while the public safety committee will supervise collections from homes.

Bay State Industrial Building Up 124 P. C.

Construction of non-residential buildings in 68 Massachusetts cities and towns was 124 per cent greater last year than in 1940, the State Labor Department announced today.

The figures, refelecting industrial expansion under the defense program, showed the total cost for these buildings was $22,957,214.

Residential construction amounted to $39,311,434 an increase of only 16 per cent over the previous year.

REVERE TO STAY LIGHTED

Vacationists and pleasure-seekers who enjoy the night gayety at Revere Beach were assured today there will be no blackouts or restrictions of amusement activities, following a conference of Mayor Raymond E. Carey with Army officials.

States, Cities Asked To Cut Down Taxes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Chairman Doughton (D.) of North Carolina, of the House Ways and Means Committee asked states and municipalities today to consider reducing their tax levies so that individuals could better bear the burden of new federal levies to help finance the war program.

ANOTHER—Uncle Sam's Liberty Ship plan speeds up . . . and another vessel is launched to aid our war effort. It's the 10,000-ton Daniel Boone, launched at a California shipyard.

Preparing to start committee consideration of President Roosevelt's request that Congress enact a new $7,000,000,000 general tax bill—to be followed by a $2,000,000,000 boost in Social Security levies—Doughton said:

"The federal government is going to economize on non-defense expenditures and the states, counties and municipalities should do the same thing. That would lighten the burden on many individuals and help absorb some of the big taxes they are going to have to pay to the federal government.

"We have helped the states with their relief, roads and a lot of other projects in the past and now they might turn around and help us."

Doughton suggested, for instance, that state sales taxes could be reduced or eliminated to make way for a general sales tax, which has been suggested as one method to raise part of the new revenues. Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.), another Ways and Means Committeeman, recently suggested that state and federal sales taxes be consolidated, but primarily to reduce collection costs.

Some congressmen, however, pointed out that almost all states expected their revenues from gasoline and motor vehicle license taxes to decline because of the rubber and car rationing programs, and for that reason the legislators were none too sure that other state levies could be abandoned or reduced without interfering with essential functions of local government.

Doughton said he still did not know when Treasury and congressional tax experts would be ready to present a program for the committee to consider, or when Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau would be ready to testify at hearings.

Held in Robbery Of Violinist's Home

GREAT BARRINGTON, Jan. 16—Accused of breaking into the summer home here of Albert Spaulding, the violinist, and Mrs. Spaulding, and stealing jewelry valued at $4310, Louis A. Iemolini, 42, local garage worker, was held in $5000 in Pittsfield County jail today.

The theft occurred last August while the Spauldings were on a trip to Canada. It is expected both the violinist and his wife will testify at the trial next week.

FBI Finds Blueprints On Navy Yard Man

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16 (AP)—The FBI announced that meticulous sketches of gun relay and fire control wiring on Mare Island Navy vessels had been found in the possession of Hilbert Sylvester Coz, 53, an electrician.

EDWARDS MEN HAVE OWN AID FOR DAN CUPID

Already noted for their resourcefulness, Camp Edwards soldiers scored another triumph today by producing an officer who has the power of waiving the Massachusetts five-day marriage license law, a boon for all who wish to speed up their wedding plans.

The officer is Lieut.-Col. Elijah J. Adlow of Brookline, attached to the judge-advocate's section and in private life a judge of Boston Municipal Court.

He still holds his commission to grant five-day waivers and has announced his willingness to do so, provided applicants have met the state's blood-test law requirements. Out-of-state soldiers may claim Falmouth or other nearby Cape towns as their temporary places of residence in obtaining licenses but Massachusetts men must apply for their papers in their home towns.

SKI HIKES AT DEVENS

At Fort Devens, troops made use of the fine weather to concentrate on winter maneuvers. Members of the 16th infantry took long ski hikes through the hilly woodlands while the First Engineers continued drills constructing the new type of girder bridges.

Maj.-Gen. Donald C. Cubbison, First Division commander, ordered hundreds of soldiers to renew their drills in loading and unloading trains. Many more resumed target practice, so that all 12 ranges were operating to capacity.

"It is essential that we train over and over to perfect our marksmanship. Every shot must count," Gen. Cubbison declared.

CRITICALLY BURNED

Corp. Samuel J. Latona of the 99th Quartermaster Regiment at Fort Devens was severely burned in a flash-fire of gasoline fumes, while filling a container. He was reported in a critical condition at the new station hospital.

Meanwhile, in Boston, Philip P. A. O'Connell, special assistant to U. S. Dist.-Atty. Edmund J. Brandon, started condemnation proceedings in federal court for the seizure of 221 acres of land in Lancaster for additional maneuver grounds and the general enlargement of Fort Devens.

A War Department check for approximately $48,000 has been deposited in the court for reimbursement of owners.

Cong. Tinkham Home, Now Supports F. D.

Cong. George Holden Tinkham was back home today for a rest after a siege of insomnia and a heavy cold. Declaring he had completely recuperated and was hale and hearty at 71, he said he would return to Washington Sunday to do his share in wartime legislation.

"Although I was a Plymouth Rock isolationist, I voted for the three war declarations and I shall support the war program of President Roosevelt to the fullest of my understanding," he said.

90-Mile-an-Hour Train Hits Truck; Driver Walks Off

DECATUR, Ill., Jan. 16 (INS)—The distinction of being the only person ever struck by a streamliner traveling 90 miles per hour and walking away from the scene was claimed by John Walters, 20.

John's cattle truck was hit by the Illinois Central's Green Diamond at a grade crossing northwest of Decatur.

The cab of the truck, with John in it, was thrown 25 feet in the air.

The four horses he was transporting were killed.

But John walked away from the debris with only minor injuries, commented:

"I felt like I was floating."

AUSSIES SMASH JAPS AT OWN JUNGLE GAME

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 16 (AP)—Australian troops now playing such a vital role in Singapore's defense are using the invaders' own junglefighting technique, reports reaching here today said, and are giving the Japanese "the hardest blow they've had in this war to date."

Such was the report of Sergt. Dan Fitchett, official correspondent with the Australians at Malaya. At the same time Prime Minister Curtin said his news from the front indicated the Australian force "had the situation in hand, although it remains difficult owing to teh absence of air support."

(Official Singapore reports, perhaps not at hand when Curtin made this comment, indicated, however, that the Australians were getting considerable air support.)

As an instance of the Aussies' success in beating the Japanese at their own style of warfare, Fitchett cited their first engagement, in which they ambushed and wiped out a Japanese advance unit by cutting behind the Japanese to blow up a bridge and thus isolate them from their main body.

AUSSIES' ARRIVAL SURPRISE

Fitchett quoted Major-General Gordon Bennett, commander of the Australians, as declaring that:

"The Japs are getting the hardest blow they've had in this war to date and there's lots more coming to them. Every move they make from now on is one which will be countered by Australians who can outmarch, outfight and outwit them."

Fitchett said the Australians' move into the front lines, which began last week-end, had been such a closely-guarded secret that many troops almost had dispaired of seeing action when the order came. Some units were on their way within the hour, all to positions chosen some weeks before by special reconnaissance parties.

Their arrival at the front was just as much of a surprise to the British and Indian troops they relieved, Fitchett reported.

Former Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies today laid the blame for the shortage of British air strength in Singapore and the Malay peninsula on the shoulders of military leaders in London.

"Whoever is to blame for the shortage of airplanes at Singapore and in Malaya," he said in a broadcast, "it is certainly not Gen. Sir. Robert Brooke-Popham."

REMOVED FROM POST

Sir Robert was removed at the end of last month as the commander-in-chief of the British Far Eastern forces.

Menzies said:

"When I was passing through Singapore early last year, Sir Robert from the first to last spoke to me about the urgent and predominant need for air strength and particularly fighter strength.

"Conference after conference took lace in London about the question of air strength in the Far East.

"Accurate adherence to historical fact requires I should say the service chiefs in London took a more modest view of the air requirements for Singapore and Malaya than those on the spot."

DRY ARMY, NAVY URGED IN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The long buried "wet or dry" issue was revived in Congres today—22 years to the day after the birth of national prohibition and nine years after its death—with Senate consideration of a proposal to halt the sale of beer and wine at Army or Navy posts.

Sen. O'Daniel (D.) of Texas sought to bring before the chamber a bill introduced originally by his predecessor, the late Sen. Morris Sheppard, often called "the father of prohibition."

Shepppard annually addressed the Senate on each post-repeal anniversary of the ratification of the national prohibition amendment, predicting the eventual return of the nation to a "dry"" staus.

O'Daniel, following in Sheppard's footsteps, told reporters he hoped to force a vote today on his predecessor's proposal.

WOULD BAN VICE

The Sheppard bill would ban the "sales of liquor, including beer and wines, at all military establishments and would give the War and Navy Departments supervision of vice in the areas around military camps

Army and Navy opposition to the measure in its present form, however, was expected to bring an administrative move to return the bill to the military affairs committee for revision. The committee reported it without recommendation on May 16, as an emergency defense measure.

In a letter to the committee, Secretary Stimson said the War Department fully realized that it would be highly desirable from the standpoint of efficiency and morals to have an army in which there was no drunkenness.

STIMSON OPPOSES BILL

"However," Stimson added, "knowing the frailties of human nature, and realizing that habits of temperance or intemperance are developed long before the individual becomes a soldier, the War Department is convinced that temperance cannot be obtained by prohibition applied to its personnel any more than it can be attained by prohibition applied to the nation at large."

B. & M. Force Dines M'Carthy

Friends and business associates will gather at the Boston Garden Club at a dinner tonight to honor Henry F. McCarthy, passenger traffic manager of the Boston & Maine R. R., on his appointment as associate director of traffic movement in the Office of Defense Transportation.

H. F. McCarthy

One of the youngest railroad executives in the nation, McCarthy has been given an indefinite leave by the B. & M. and will take over his new duties Monday.

He was chosen for the new post by a former Bostonian, Joseph B. Eastman, who once was a social worker at the South End House and now heads the nation's transportation services.

AXIS MINES PERIL SHIPS IN U. S. WATER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Axis undersea campaign extending the battle of the Atlantic to American shores today brought the threat of enemy mines, as well as torpedoes, to East Coast shipping lanes.

Mines played an important part in the 1918 U-boat successes in coastal waters, and it was fully expected here the present raiders would resort to similar methods to boost their bag of tonnage.

There was a growing suspicion here that a pressing Axis need for some quick and showy successes prompted the raid as much as any military consideration.

One coincidence that did not completely escape the capital's notice was that the raiders' appearance almost in the shadow of the Statue of Liberty was timed nicely for the opening of the Pan-American conference at Rio de Janeiro.

USING FEAR CAMPAIGN

The Italian press expressed "tormented" concern lest the result of the conference would be the solid alignment of South America against the new order. Informed sources here noted that the Axis has freqquently resorted to the implied threat technique, using everything from blood-and-fire news reels to the "mistake" bombs which have fallen from time to time on Eire.

The bold underseas foray, it was pointed out, might well serve even more apparent propaganda purposes. The most obvious was the "we're-with-you" gesture to Tokyo, which has yet to join the Rome-Berlin end of the Axis in war against the Soviets.

There was also the hypodermic effect that spectacular raiding might have on the German and Italian home fronts after the depressing reverses in Russia and Libya. And there was Vichy, which has shown less 'collaboration" zeal since the United States entered the conflict.

CITE USE OF 3 TORPEDOES

Two things about the current raid have created doubts that its purpose was strictly military. They pointed out that it was a punishing season of the year for transatlantic submarine operations—the World War raiders all waited for summer weather—and that the first sinking reported was noteworhty in one respect for the expenditure of torpedoes it involved.

The known types of ocean-going submarines in the German and Italian navies are believed to carry a dozen torpedoes. In view of this limited supply, considerable surprise was expressed in naval circles that the raider which sank the Panamanian tanker Norness used three torpedoes, even though the ship was less than 10,000 tons.

Accounts of this attack indicated the raider fired the torpedoes into the ship without waiting to determine whether the first had struck a death blow. This was considered a prodigal expenditure of torpedoes.

The missiles are extremely costly—the U. S. Navy pays $10,000 apiece for those it uses—and an experienced commander will not fire any more than necessary in enemy waters unless he has orders to make sure of his victim.

The number of torpedoes used in the second reported sinking was not disclosed.

vicinity of American shores in so-called "wolf packs."

The complete, dramatic story of the torpedoing of the Norness was told at the Newport naval Station by Capt. Harold Hansen, master of the tanker, and his crew.

The submarine fired the first torpedo at 1:30 a. m. Wednesday when the tanker, which is Norwegian owned but registered under the flag of Panama, was 60 miles southeast of Montauk Point, L. I.

CAPTAIN'S STORY

No warning was given and the crew had no time to unlimber a three-inch gun carried on its afterdeck. The first of the three torpedoes fired into the vessel destroyed the ship's radio shack so that no warning or call for help could be sent.

"It was misty and cold and the wind was southeast," Capt. Hansen said. "When we launched the small boats there was no panic. Each man took his station.

"When we were in the lifeboats we first saw the sub. They did not stop to see whether we needed help. She just moved away. One of the lifeboats turned over but was righted.

"After 12 hours we saw a plane above us circling. We tried to signal her.

HEARD NO MACHINE GUN

"Perhaps we could identify the submarine. We cannot talk about this. We cannot say whether we were running with or without lights or with other vessels. We cannot say what our course was, what our speed or where we were going."

Asked concerning the cook's story that the submarine crew had machine gunned the life raft, Capt. Hansen said:

"I did not see or hear any shelling or machine-gunning. Certainly there was none around my boat."

Third Officer Divino supported the captain saying:

"There was no shelling of small boats. The sub she just disappeared."

He described the attack:

"It was not rough, no moon, most of us were asleep when the sub fired the first torpedo.

"The first hit us on the portside. Then in a few minutes the sub swung around and hit us on the starboard side. The third time she was back on our portside. Maybe she was just practicing on us."

Charles M. Karlsen, a 20-year-old seamen, said he thought the submarine was German. "I think I heard them talk," he said.

Two of the 40 men aboard the tanker were drowned in attempting to launch a life boat, Capt. Hansen said. The one man seriously injured suffered a fractured knee. The rest of the crew survived their experience in good physical shape.

7 FOUND DEAD IN WRECK OF U. S. BOMBER

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16 (INS)—Seven Army fliers were known dead and two more were listed missing today by Fourth Air Force headquarters as the wreckage of an ill-fated B-26 bomber was investigated near El Cajon Pass in central California.

The bomber disappeared during a storm Dec. 30 and was not sighted from the air until Wednesday. Searching parties recovered all of the bomber's secret equipment, authorities disclosed. The plane had not burned.

Pending ideneification of the victims, the Fourth Air Force did not name the fatalities nor the missing men as such. The complete crew, however, was listed as follows:

ARGENTINA PRESSED TO JOIN WITH U. S.

President Ramon Castillo of Argentina declaring Argentina as "faithful and loyal" as any other of the American nations. The letter said there was a campaign to misrepresent his country's position.

HARMONY KEYNOTE

(In Buenos Aires acting President Ramon Castillo denied in a statement to the newspaper El Mundo that Argentina was withholding collaboration from the Rio De Janeiro conference. He said the Argentine delegation went to the Brazilian capital to discuss the best means of applying a system of collaboration whose machinery, he declared, never had been fully established.

(Castillo declared "Our ideas and our necessities . . . naturally can differ from those of other countries without that difference implying any irreconcilable diversion, reserve or opposition."

He said he believed Argentina's foreign policy of regarding the United States as a non-belligerent "can be much more useful than any other extreme position and will make possible a collaboration with the United States which few other American countries can offer."

(Argentine foreign policy, the President added, may not be "so spectacular as some may wish," but nevertheless it is "as serious, loyal and useful as any in the common cause of America.")

The conference opened yesterday afternoon with a round of speeches which sounded a harmonious note.

Ruiz Guinazu vigorously applauded with the other delegates references by United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, leader of the U. S. delegation, to the "shibboleth of classic neutrality" and "illusory neutrality" in his speech.

Welles indicated he desired the Americas to break outright with the Axis—"seal off the hemisphere from contagion," as another member of the U. S. delegation put it. Much of Welles' speech was devoted to the dangers of continued operation of Axis diplomats and consuls in the Americas.

PLEADS FOR UNITY

Welles urged the non-belligerents of the Western Hemisphere to abandon neutrality and to form a united front against aggression by driving out Axis agents now serving as diplomats.

He also urged the severing of economic relations with the Axis by preventing business, financial and trade transactions.

JAP RAIDERS BOMB 2 DUTCH BASES, LOSE TWO WARSHIPS

BATAVIA, N. E. I., Jan. 16 (AP)—Japanese bombers attacked the Medan military air base on Sumatra today and again bombed the Amboina naval air base in raids near the extremities of the farflung Netherlands East Indies chain of islands.

The raids were announced by Aneta, which also reported an announcement that Dutch coastal batteries sank two enemy destroyers during the battle of Tarakan which ended Monday in Japanese occupation of the oil-rich island off northeast Borneo.

The naval station at Amboina, second in importance only to that at Soerabaja, also was attacked by the Japanese yesterday.

The island is in the Molucca range of the Japanese beachheads on the Minahassa peninsula of Celebes.

FREE FRENCH REACH EGYPT TO AID BRITISH IN DRIVE

CAIRO, Jan. 16 (AP)—Free French forces, ready for their first land attack on the Germans since the armistice of Compiegne, have arrived to support British, Imperial and Allied troops in the drive on Axis hold-out positions in the rocky highlands of Halfaya, on the Libyan-Egyptian frontier, British headquarters disclosed today.

The French were said to be fully equipped with tanks and armored cars, just as were the De Gaullist forces which fought against the Italians in Eritrea and Ethiopia during Britain's conquest of the Italian East Africa empire last year.

In the battle against the Halfaya garrison—estimated to consist of a mixed force of 7000 Germans and Italians—today's British communique reported that "artillery on both sides is again active."

German and Italian entrenchments about Halfaya ("Hellfire" to the British) pass menace the supply lines of Britain's desert army which has knifed more than 300 miles to the west.

Mobile columns of the British were declared to be moving slowly westward along the Gulf of Sirte coast against stiff opposition "over country which has been heavily mined."

Referring to operations midway between the Egyptian border and Tripoli, the Libyan capital, the communique said "little change was reported yesterday from the Ageheila area."

"The enemy again developed considerable air activity against our forward troops," it reported, "but, as a result of our fighter protection, damage and losses sustained were negligible."

Tin Can Ban To Deal Brides A Hard Blow

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—OPM is looking up some bad news for brides—no more dinners out of cans.

If Mrs. Newlywed is smart, she will rustle up a cook book and start studying because there's an order in the works prohibiting the use of tin for packaging virtually everything that can be marketed satisfactorily in some other type of container or in no container at all.

Among the casualties, it was reported, will be such old reliables as pork and beans, spaghetti, canned meat, and beer—not to mention dog food. In recent years, the dog food output has averaged around 650,000,000 one-pound cans annually.

The theory of the pending order is further conservation of dwindling tin supplies. It was understood that the can manufacturers would have supplies cut about 50 per cent upon issuance of the order and would be prohibited from using the metal for a long list of items after March 31.

Listen, World!

NEARER TO GOD

By Elsie Robinson

THIS TIMID, colorless life . . . this wasn't the sort of career you planned in that first hot young dreaming. Others might make contemptible bargains with life, cowardly compromises . . . crawl into comfortable holes like sluggish beasts . . . but you were going to be different!

Oh, yes! How simple it seemed—at 17. But what has become of those noble resolutions now? Easy enough to dream, but when it came to actual living? How did one stay gallant and eager, cooped in the same dingy walls, doing the same dingy chores year after year?

Shabbiness, illness, loneliness, humiliation—tragic loss—no wonder the human spirit compromised; surrendered in the face of life's constant mauling! No wonder YOU gave up. What else could you have done?

And yet—you can't be reconciled. Again and again the troubling question comes:

Was it inevitable? Might there have been some other way to face life? Or are we really doomed to go "like sheep to the slaughter"—beaten before we even start the fight?

NO! There is another way! You CAN beat life to the clinch . . . emerge victorious . . . as once you dreamed you could. And no man is ever too poor or too sick or too old to learn the secret of it.

Seven words. Nietzsche, the German philosopher, put it long ago into seven words. "WHAT DOES NOT KILL ME, STRENGTHENS ME." Jack Black, a friend of mine whom I loved and deeply respected, had written a book. Once Jack had been a convict.

Afterward he told the story of those terrible years under the title, "YOU CAN'T WIN." In one place he described a flogging he received in a Canadian jail. Ghastly! One felt the flayed and staggering flash . . . the nightmare agony.

Not the end of his physical life, perhaps, but the end of all the pride and ambition that makes a man's life worth living. But it wasn't. Even crawling away from that dreadful tripod—fumbling his way with blood-glazed eyes—he knew that he was still unbeaten! His flesh might be lashed to ribbons, but his spirit was still whole.

Life was a brutal business. And there was little a man might do to lessen that brutality. Always the lash would fall. If it were not one lash, it would be another—sickness, poverty, loneliness, humiliation, tragic loss—always the lash would fall.

BUT for every stroke that a man survived, he was the stronger. For there was something in a man that no lash could ever reach . . . something that lifted him above the mauling of life into the mystery from which all men came.

Something that lifted a man from the whipping post of a convict to the golden throne of God! And each time a man triumphed over the agony of the lash, he was one step further on that long, long trail!

Home is all that a word can say

YOU SAY IT AND IT MEANS THAT WHICH LIES NEAREST THE HEART

It means the patch of starry sky, tethered by the outlines of a familiar window; the waking shaft of yellow sun and the smell of breakfast. It means the rush of light feet and the rustle of a dress and the unwritten music of voices. It means a family around a table and a man going off to work and children setting out for school and the loving eyes of a dog. It means the neighbor bringing back the borrowed cup of sugar and a friend in his provided place and a guest given the best chair. It means the slanting sun and the tranquil crackle of a fire on the dusted hearth and light streaming through the darkness.

YOU SAY HOME AND YOU HAVE DESCRIBED A LIFE

You speak this word and you conjure up the staggering footsteps of a baby, the antics of a child and the shining eyes of a little girl at her first birthday party. You say it and you see a gangling youth scraping his downy cheek with a new razor, in pride and trembling, or a budding woman in white dress, tying a ribbon in her hair. You say it and you have described a boy and girl in love, a wedding gown, the stiff, new luggage waiting to be carried away and the falling of slow tears. You say Home and you have said people growing up and growing old. You say Home and you have defined birth and life and love and grief and death and you have made them bearable.

YOU SAY HOME AND YOU HAVE WRITTEN A NATION'S HISTORY

For this they crossed the uncharted sea. Their axes rang in the deep forest and the walls of their houses rose in clearings in the wilderness. For this they fired those shots that were heard around the world. For this they pushed back constricting boundaries and remade geography, conquered the stormy mountain pass, forded the dangerous rivers and left the bones of those they loved to whiten in the desert. Wherever they went they drove their ploughshares into the stubborn earth and sowed the seeds they carried in their saddlebags and the seeds they carried in their hearts.

WHAT MORE CAN BE SAID THAN THIS?

We say Home and the way we say it rallies the present and forecasts the future. Every man's home and his right to make and keep it is our first premise. We stand on that right! From this deep source has poured the measure of our country's greatness—the true measure of democracy. Every man's home . . . yours and mine and his.

We will not be the first to risk and dare and sacrifice, nor is it likely we shall be the last, and we make no mistake about the place where these things begin. We know that they begin at home. We know that to the challenge of menacing events the answer lies not in fine words or learned theories but in little houses and unhistoric rooms where people live.

Home has always been our answer and the answer has not changed. Against whatever wave threatens to engulf us, we will set the spirit that animates our forty million homes, the will of our people toward a better way of life, the determination of men and women to make safe, at any cost, that which they hold most dear.

Men who are not dreamers dream of home. Men who love peace will fight and die for it. From the love of home the love of country derives.

Why, Home is all there is!

OUR DAILY CITATION: To little Anna R. Gagliardi, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Gagliardi of Athol, who appeared at school this week loaded down with 13 pounds of pennies—1877 copper coins. With them she bought a $25 Defense Saving Bond—a wise investment for herself and splendid inspiration for other girls and boys.

AMERICA'S debutante daughters fail to impress Mr. Bud Westmore, Hollywood glamour authority.

"These young women look older than their mothers," he says. "In fact, the average 'deb' is a proponent of all that is to be criticized from a beauty standpoint.

"The fad of wearing the hair completely straight and letting it hang lank and gracelessly to the shoulders is an example of what I mean.

TYPICAL NEW ENGLAND SPORTS ENTHUSIAST
Air and Exercise Make Her Cheeks Bloom

"And the fetish of a dead-white makeup and a very dark lipstick can only be described as an attempt to achieve a world-weary appearance quite out of keeping with today's needs for fresh charm and gaiety."

The girl whom Mr. Westmore has in mind must be truly depressing. If he had not called her a "deb" we would be inclined to suspect he was giving us a word picture of a clothing store manikin.

But—thank heaven—not many young women look like that. Certainly not those who live, work and play in New England.

Here, in the wintertime and summertime sports paradise of America, naturalness is the principal standard of beauty.

Miss New England may seek to enhance her God-given charms, but she seldom makes the mistake of trying to create a brand new face.

Chalk-like cheeks and hair that resembles a dish-mop are neither wanted nor tolerated in a healthy land where thousands of young women are devoted to such vigorous activities as skiing, coasting, skating, surfboard-riding and high diving.

FEW WILL APPLAUD the advice of Mr. Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, soberly delivered at the recent United States Conference of Mayors in Washington.

Don't reduce city taxes, Mr. Eccles counseled, even though the war boom in business may make present levies yield more revenue than needed.

Then, according to the Associated Press, he went on to explain that if cities reduce taxes they will nullify the efforts of the Federal Government to forestall inflation by increasing Federal taxes.

Mr. Eccles apparently does not know that most of our New England mayors were elected to cut taxes as drastically as possible.

Nor does he seem to realize that the mayor who places a needlessly large burden on the property owner and rent payer is courting defeat when and if he seeks re-election.

Everybody's income is necessarily limited. If the city and town in which he lives takes too much money away from him in the form of real estate levies, the average individual will have fewer dollars to spend for defense bonds.

We will win this war with the warships, bombing planes and guns which defense bonds will buy.

We will not win it with extravagant sewer contracts and wasteful highway projects.

BANK SAVINGS ARE SAFE; there is absolutely no truth in the too widely circulated reports that the United States intends to confiscate deposits.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., who certainly is in a position to speak with authority, tells us:

"I wish to state most emphatically that there are no foundations whatsoever for such rumors.

"The Federal Government does not have under consideration any proposal regarding the confiscation of saving deposits of this country for any purpose.

"Furthermore, anyone circulating rumors of this character is acting against the welfare of the whole nation."

That is the truth in a nutshell. The rumor spreader is as much a servant of Hitler and his Jap and Italian partners as the spy or fifth columnist who deliberately plants the germs of fear and dissension.

IS SAID 50 per cent of the autos in the United States have a cash value of less than $100 . . . Seems difficult to believe anybody would over-charge a soldier at this time. But it's being done. This is possible by use of a special equipment which may be made available to some United States radio stations on the Pacific Coast.

THE BEST LAUGH OF THE WEEK was an example of what show-business calls "unconscious humor," and a thick Norwegian dialect helped the effect greatly . . It couldn't possibly read as funny as it sounded . . . Survivors of the submarined tanker Norness were being interviewed . . . "Would you like to say a few words of gratitude to those responsible for saving your life?" one of the seamen was asked . . . "Ja. I bane like to t'ank the man in plane who dropped whiskey on the raft!" . . . Unrelated to this item, except that his name is synonymous in recent years with broadcasting, Fulton Lewis, Jr., whose stories and by-line were familiar to readers of this paper when he was an ace reporter for Universal Service and INS, flitted in and out of town last night.

YOU WOULD NEVER HEAR IT from him, but Fulton is the highest paid news broadcaster in the business right now. Thousands of Bostonians who have been fascinated by the combination of his fine, warm voice and his rhetorical and literately objective treatment of news from Washington will be pleased to know that his visible personality is not a disappointment . . . Fulton had time for a quick one at the Ritz-Carlton bar as he sandwiched in a few minutes between a broadcast at Fore River and the midnight for New York at the Back Bay station.

"IT'S A BOOM-TOWN alright, Washington," he said . . . "But social life as Washingtonians knew it has ceased almost . . . On the other hand, transients fill the nightspots. It's a replica of what happens in most of the Broadway clubs. If you took an enrollment of the customers you'd find residents of every state in the union." . . . George Corey, the young playwright whom New York critics tabbed as a possible successor to Sean O'Casey, was with Mr. Lewis . . . Corey worked on the short-lived play in which Frankie Thomas appeared here last season . . . It was a rush job when the script was beyond salvation . . . An original Corey opus, "Not in the Stars," was produced by the Experimental Theater last season . . . William Brady has bought it.

COREY ALSO SLIPPED into radio and play-writing from the newspaper business . . . He had an interesting prediction about the fabulous FM or frequency modulation . . . "FM isn't too far away from the practical stage, and with FM will come television . . . But with television there will be a period when national broadcasting as we now experience it will be discontinued . . . Television can extend only to the horizon, and that means each locality will be forced to develop its own production center . . . This too will be a temporary situation . . . But it will obtain until co-axial cables are hooked-up to convey programs over long distances. And that is going to be a long and arduous job."

"I love America. After the war I want to come here and buy a Buick and a farm" . . . And a kid from an American destroyer which was attacked by the Nazis amused a few of us by explaining how much he enjoyed traveling on trains . . . He had just made a trip from Newport . . . "Gee, I certainly love to ride in trains, but most of the boys prefer riding on a bus . . . I can't stand buses . . . They make me kind of seasick . . ." . . . anyone who has taken a spin in a pitching destroyer, even on a placid day, will get a kick out of that.

AMBASSADOR DAVIES' "Mission to Moscow," easily the most startling literary event of the year, has made the former American business-man the new lion of the Washington salons . . . It can now be told that most of the career diplomats sneered at the straightforward Mr. Davies, who announced himself at the Kremlin as "a capitalist, and proud to be one" . . . He showed 'em.

THAT VERY VERSATILE young Boston lady, Mildred Law, is one of the solid hits of the Miami season . . . Beginning as a tap-dancer in the nightclubs, Mildred (of Dorchester) astounded her friends by blossoming suddenly as a topflight vocalist . . . She got a job with Vaughn Monroe's organization and made good . . . But singing with a band was not quite interesting or profitable enough . . . So Mildred decided to combine this talent with her dancing, which was always superlative. Now, singing and dancing, she's the hit of the new show at Lou Walter's Latin Quarter in Miami . . . An! if these is a suspician that Boston reporters, (this one at any rate) sometimes respond most extravagantly to this or that piece of entertainment by showering it with praise, we submit the following accolade from a Miami Herald column entitled "On with the Show" . . . Describing Miss Law and the Latin Quarter show, the column's author calls it "gorgeous, exciting, revealing, bewitching, exotic, refined, inspiring, alluring, creative, mirthful, seductive, soothing, sophisticated, dignified, daring, delicate, exquisite, thrilling, tuneful, baffling, and above all, delightful and different."

Martha Raye

Broadway's Voice

GOTHAM SMILES LIKE MARTHA RAYE

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—Visiting out-of-towners have two favorite cliches about Gotham that have always irked me. The first naturally, is that time-worn chestnut: "New York is a nice place to visit, but I wouldn't want to live there." Along with some seven million neighbors, I take violent issue with this statement, but I'm resigned to hearing it every time I pass through Grand Central or Pennsylvania Station. More often than not, I suspect, it's the envious catch-phrase of a remote inlander who secretly would love to live no farther from Times Square than you can throw Broadway Rose.

KATE SMITH

"New York is such a cold town!" is the other outland outlandishness that bothers me.

You hear it from people who have luxuriated in our fine hotels, chuckled at our hit shows, been deferentially served in restaurants from the Automat to the Colony, and been given explicit, courteous instructions on how to reach the Battery or Bronx Zoo or their relatives in Canarsie from dozens of busy local citizens.

"New York is a cold town" is a canard, a fib and a fabrication. It makes me mad.

ACTUALLY, New York is a friendly town, probably more friendly than any other in the world today. It can smile as broadly as Martha Raye and its voice is as cheerful as Kate Smith's. It is that way because New Yorkers are burdened with a collective worry that we'll be accused of coldness, and we labor twice as hard at being neighborly to visitors as do residents of any other hamlet. Perhaps our amiability is not the intimate, inquisitive kind found in towns with population 1500, but I'm sure it's as open-handed and cordial as the variety of hospitality found in Chicago, San Francisco or New Orleans—towns that go to great lengths to assure their fellow Americans that they're super-friendly.

As a matter of fact, a committee has been formed here recently to proclaim this simple truth. It's called the "New York Is a Friendly Town" group, and its purpose is to brighten the furloughs of the thousands of soldiers, sailors, marines and flying corps students who descend on the town every week-end. The committee arranges dances, night club junkets, sight-seeing tours, parties, sports outings and the like for the visiting delegations from Uncle Sam's armed forces.

Frank Case, genial host of the Algonquin Hotel, who heads one section of the committee, informs me that the movement was organized both to aid in bolstering defense morale and also to eliminate once and for all the fable about Gotham's frigidity.

As a minor contribution to a good cause, I'd like to submit some case history data on the subject of Manhattan good manners.

NEW YORK IS HUMAN; it's human with the extra warmth of a melting pot village that contains millions of people of all races and creeds who have kinfolk being pushed around in other parts of the world.

Walk into a Broadway movie theater. The usher may not wish you a slap-on-the-back good evening, but he'll kid with you about waiting for a seat, help you locate the girl you lost, even give you a synopsis of the picture if you came in late.

Talk to a New York taxi driver. Cabbies are the wisest people in the world. They'll give you the inside dope on anything from Hitler's next move to what Churchill really said to Roosevelt.

Our bartenders are the same way. Let a lad wander in with a hangover and he'll get none of the loftier-than-thou stuff that he'd risk in prissier communities. The bartender will nurse him back to sobriety and never crack a smile.

GRAB A SEAT or a strap in a speeding subway. Yes, even in the subway you'll find a friendly New York. The riders may fight you tooth and nail for a seat, they may step all over you getting out, but watch what happens to their faces and their manners when a mother brings a little baby into the car. Or if you're lost, ask them how to reach any place on the map of New York. You'll find a whole group of unofficial guides gathering around to supply the answers.

Of course New York is a friendly town. Learn it by wandering down to the water-front and chatting with the seamen on shore leave. New York is another port of call to them—but it's also a second home. Visit a Jewish delicatessen or a Chinese restaurant or an Italian spaghetti joint and let the waiter guide you through the intricacies of the menu.

The MARCH of EVENTS

-By Benjamin DeCasseres

"THE BOMB that sank the Ostfriesland will be heard around the world," said General Williams, Chief of Ordnance of the Army in 1921.

It is being heard around the world today.

Events in the Battle of the Pacific now show indisputably that the bomber is king and that the battleship as a primary fighting machine is passing.

But who hurled the bomb that sank the old German dreadnought, the Ostfriesland, in 1921?

Who fired that bomb that was heard around the world?

The man who did it was a buck private in the Spanish-American war who later rose to be commander of the U. S. Air Forces in France in the World War, a man who was one of the greatest military geniuses and prophets that this country ever produced—and who, because he was a prophet of air-power supremacy and because he told the fossils in the Army what he thought of them, was court-martialed, found guilty and suspended for five years without pay or allowance. Finally, he resigned from the Army.

He was General William ("Billy") Mitchell.

TECHNICALLY GUILTY of insubordination in lashing the brasshats, he was really Dreyfused because he knew more than any other military man in America.

Not only did he know more but he was uncanny in his prophecies in the light of what is happening today, as you will see by what follows:

1—He was jeered in 1922 when he said that planes would soon attain a speed of 250 miles an hour, that later on they would fly at 500 miles an hour and that the day was coming when there would be a regular Clipper service between China and California.

2—In 1920 he insisted that Alaska should be heavily fortified, for, said he, "Alaska is the keystone of the whole Pacific arch."

3—He said—and he was laughed at—that our greatest immediate danger lay in the Pacific—from Japan.

4—He urged co-operation between China and the United States against Japan.

5—He urged closer relations between the United States and Australia, the Dutch East Indies, Singapore and New Zealand.

6—In 1934 he informed the aviation heads at Washington that "our most dangerous enemy is Japan and our planes should be advised to attack Japan." They "listened to him politely," said the Washington dispatches at that time.

7—In the same year in a speech in Philadelphia he told a patriotic group that "The United States is menaced by the Air Force of Japan." He said further that "speedy Japanese planes capable of flying tremendous distances were in existence." He was politely applauded.

8—In 1935 "Billy" Mitchell told an American Legion audience in Boston: "Japan is on the loose. Wars will be won in the skies in the future—and the time to get bases and planes is right now."

9—Just before his death, a few years ago, General Mitchell told the House Military Affairs Committee: "Our problem is in the Pacific. The people we will have to fight are the Japanese."

THUS FOR 17 YEARS the voice of General Mitchell was a voice crying in the wilderness.

Unfortunately, the only way he could make a dent in brasshatdom was to insult it. And he did.

"Billy" Mitchell is one of our great hero-patriots who died too soon.

He was a genius of the air, a man with wide-open eyes in his brain—and, like all men who see ahead of his time, like all men who do not bow to brasshattery, he was stoned, figuratively, and actually disgraced for seeing what no one else had the eyes to see.

All that he said has come true.

And in every bomber rides the shade of Ex-Buck Private "Billy" Mitchell.

HITLER'S GERMANY—so far away from the civilized Germany we knew in our youth!—becomes more and more incredible to our free American minds as news seeps out.

The American Druggist tells us that in Germany today "sickness is a crime. Calling a doctor is a punishable offense unless one has a 'certificate of illness;' and such certificates may not be applied for before a patient has a temperature of more than 101 degrees and is in a serious condition. Proclaimed the Nazi propaganda office in a recent bulletin: 'Illness is a sign of inferiority, and a good racial German cannot be sick!'

"In the capital itself, the situation is aggravated by the prohibition against 'Aryans' being attended by Jewish doctors. So the services of 4000 highly skilled and competent professional Hebrews is denied a good part of the populace.

"Perhaps most ironic, in view of the Nazi philosophy that woman's bounden duty is to breed more and better Nazi children, is the circumstance that, except in the rarest emergency instances, mothers are not permitted to receive hospital care either before or after childbirth."

This is only a detail of the horrors called Hitler's "New Order," which he would impose on all the world including the United States—if he should conquer.

RETURN TO MOVIES SEEN FOR ULRIC

By Louella O. Parsons

Lenore Ulric

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 16—The dramatic story of Gen. William Mitchell, who in 1926 was court-martialed and reduced to the rank of colonel and posthumously honored a few weeks ago by the Senate, is to be brought before the cameras. The spectacular career of Mitchell, who was chief of the U. S. Air Corps and director of military aviation in 1919, is the basis of a screen play to be produced by Williams Hawks for RKO. Howard Hawks, who directed "Sergeant York," one of the current big money-makers, directs "General Billy Mitchell," as the movie is tentatively titled. Mitchell, who died in 1936, is the only man to be thus posthumously honored after a court-martial. His recommendations, pigeonholed and ignored at the time, revealed that the general gave the Army the plans, technical strategy and the entire pattern of air conquest which the Germans used in their European campaign almost two decades later and with which Japan struck Pearl Harbor so devastatingly Dec. 7.

BEN HOGAN, who won the Los Angeles Open — and incidentally $3500 by the narrow margin of one stroke—is a movie bet. MGM just barely waited until Ben had edged out Jimmy Thomson before they offered him a screen test. If Hogan looks as good on the screen as he did winning the jackpot — he's a cinch for an MGM contract.

TWO OF Hal Wallis' productions this coming year under his new deal will be "Saratoga Trunk" and "The Life of Will Rogers." Through the grapevine I hear that Irene Dunne has been offered the lead in "Saratoga Trunk." I thought perhaps Olivia DeHavilland might be selected to play Clio after her fine performance in "Hold Back the Dawn." Plenty of criticism at my failure to include Olivia in my All-America motion picture team. Hal goes to New York to look at the plays before his new contract goes into effect. He would love to borrow Spencer Tracy to play Will Rogers—but you can guess that won't be easy for MGM has such a heavy schedule lined up for him.

CHATTER in Hollywood: Surprising news is that Lenore Ulric, a former David Belasco star, is in Hollywood and being tested for the role of Pilar in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." Lenore played her last movie with Greta Garbo in "Camille" in 1936. I talked with Buddy De Sylva and he said he is having great difficulty in getting an actress with the right authority for Pilar, who is one of the most important characters in the Ernest Hemingway novel. Lenore was in "Fifth Column," Hemingway's stage play, with Franchot Tone, and it was at his suggestion she was tested.

TALL, BLONDE and handsome is a very apt description of Paul Henreid, whom I met at long last. He was a guest at the Ossip Pernikoffs Russian New Year's party and if the girls don't do a rave over him after "Joan of Paris" is generally released I will be surprised. He came with the Jules Steins and I had a little talk with him. I hear that Warners have him for one picture commitment, having made a deal with RKO to borrow him to play opposite one of their important stars.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Phyllis Avery, daughter of Stephen Morehouse Avery, will wed James Van Campon, wealthy New Yorker, later this month; Ginny Simms is finding Ed Stevenson, RKO designer, good company; Tyrone Power will give Chicago a treat when he arrives there next month to visit Annabella, who is playing in "Blithe Spirit"; Charlie Chaplin has turned over the house adjoining his studio to the government for the duration; Rudy Vallee has fallen again and the girl is Mary McBride; Edgar Bergen's latest flame is Adelaide Norris; Ida Lupino is limping about with a gash in her leg caused by a fall off the moat on the set of "Moon Tide;" Mickey Rooney and his bride will attend the President's birthday ball when they are East; you needn't be surprised if Ann Rutherford's engagement to a well-known business man is announced one of these days; Hedy Lamarr is wearing an amethyst ring given her by John Howard—but she isn't wearing it on the engagement finger; Glenn Ford has bought himself a motorcycle and is now riding to the studio to save tires. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

Aussies Key to British Smash at Malaya Foe

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Well, they've finally flung the Australians into the battle of Singapore, and Allied morale in those troubled parts has zoomed, as it always does when those rangy, fightin' fools go into action.

Unless the old signs have suddenly gone wrong on us, this means the British have reached a position in their withdrawal down the Malayan peninsula where they figure not only on making a stand, but on counter-attacking.

The Aussies are good in any type of fighting, but they show best—and that means superbly—on the offensive.

AUSSIES LIKE YANKS

By the way, the Australians in the last war thought the Yanks were great fellows, and the feeling was mutual. It was the American 33d Division and Aussies who staged the first Anglo-American attack of history. That was on July 4, 1918, when the two outfits went over the top on the Somme and fought their way shoulder to shoulder to the capture of Hamel. It was a grand show.

The greatest weakness of the British continues to be in warplanes and it is likely that the battle will turn on air-power.

NOT LOST YET

Somebody asks what happens if the Japanese capture this great naval base which is the key of the Allied defense in the Far East.

First off, Singapore hasn't been lost yet. However, unless Allied air reinforcements arrive, the Nipponese likely will be able to render the base useless for warships.

Unfortunately, Singapore is the only base in that theater capable of taking care of a big naval concentration. If it is rendered useless, one assumes that the American and British fleets will divide into units which will base on the Dutch East Indies, so long as the Japs can be stood off from those islands, and after that might retire clear back to Australian bases.

Axis Envoys Leave Cuba for New York

HAVANA, Jan. 16 (INS)—Members of German and Italian legations in Cuba have left for New York, where they will take a Clipper plane for Europe, it was announced today. There were 20 in the party, including Stephen Tauchnitz, German charge d'affaires, and Giovanni Perisco, Italian minister.

ways in the Tampin area, west of yesterday's battle.

The command said the planes left several vehicles burning, damaged a number of railway trucks and inflicted casualties on the Japanese army.

(The scene of the air attack indicated the British were hitting just behind the Japanese front lines in preparation for a big battle in that sector just north of Johore state.)

The British also flew far to the rear of the Japanese spearhead pushing into western Malaya and sank a number of barges at Sungei Linggi, damaged several others, and attacked targets at Sungei Patani, northeast of Penang.

There was some contact with the Japanese on the western part of the front but the general situation remains unchanged, it was said.

The Japanese continued air raids on Singapore.

Planes were over the island for several hours today and bombs were dropped on several areas. One preliminary report said a Jap fighter was downed.

The ministry of information said the Japanese used 50 bombers, escorted by fighters, in yesterday's attack on Singapore. It said the British downed one plane, probably downed another and damaged three.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Singapore radio, in a broadcast heard by NBC listening post, said the high command of the United Nations in East Asia planned a grand offensive against the Japanese on all fronts in a gigantic circle, with Burma as the westernmost sector.

Today's U. S. Communique

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The War Department's communique No. 62, based on reports received here up to 9:30 a. m., follows:

"1—Philippine theater: Ground fighting of varying intensity continues all along the front line. Enemy shock troops with special training are attempting aggressive infiltration. Attack planes and dive bombers are being used incessantly by the Japanese against our front line troops and artillery positions.

"Many reports reaching Gen. MacArthur's headquarters from the occupied areas indicate the enemy is systematically looting and devastating the entire countryside.

"2—There is nothing to report from other areas."

DOUGH HANDLING

Pastry is tender if the dough is handled little and rolled lightly. The toughness caused by overhandling is most often caused by using too much water. Add the water, a few drops at a time, tossing the mixture with a fork until the flour barely holds together.

Economic Heads Meet

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT
National Woman Director of Civilian Defense

NEW YORK CITY, THURSDAY—Yesterday evening, I attended a dinner given by Dr. Luise Stanley, of the Bureau of Home Economics in the Department of Agriculture, for the members of the Conference on Extension Services.

This conference is a yearly event and people come to it from many states. Last night some of them came from Wyoming and many mid-western states.

Miss McGeachy, of the British embassy, spoke on some of the problems confronting rural women in England. I asked her to tell about her plan for rationing clothes, since I was sure that these were the people who would really be able to appreciate the ingenuity which turns candlewick spreads into fashionable evening coats.

Of course, their objective in rationing clothes was to put more workers into defense industries and fewer into producing consumer goods, and to preserve certain materials for vital war needs.

We may find ourselves doing the same thing. Miss McGeachy's remark, that it was only a hardship on people who had no margin of supplies in their homes, reminded me of something said by an Englishwoman, who came to see me a few days ago.

Extra coupons, she said, were given to people who were bombed out or lost all their possessions in a fire.

However, even with extra coupons they could not hope to supply themselves with an adequate amount of clothing. One pair of shoes, two dresses, three pairs of stockings, and one set of underclothes is all the usual coupon will buy for about a year.

Men are worse off, because their clothes are sold according to weight and weigh more than women's.

I ALWAYS FEEL that rural people are better prepared to meet these adjustments than urban people, because in cities it is easier to buy and very little thought is given to making up new materials or making over old garments at home, a practice which still prevails in many country families.

I spent an hour and a half at the office of civilian defense this morning and then started for New York City, traveling by train so as to have four uninterrupted hours for work.

THERE ARE SO MANY requests in my mail for a few words to go to various bulletins on the subject of defense, and I find it takes longer to dictate when the telephone rings at frequent intervals and people are dropping in for a few words with me.

Four hours of time, absolutely uninterrupted except for a glass of milk and sandwich for lunch, is a heaven sent period of quiet. It is really surprising what can be dictated. Miss Thompson says she has at least eight hours of work as a result.

Today's Food Bargains

Presumably, the severe cold snap caused the halt in the seasonal downward trend of egg prices. Fish counter quotations are a blow to the Friday food budget. However, oyster and clam prices remain unchanged, frozen mackerel is low priced, and then there's salt cod. The "best buy" in fruits and vegetables include oranges, apples, cabbage, broccoli and yellow turnip.

	Per lb.
Eggs, large, doz.	41c to 42c
Eggs, medium, doz	38c to 40c
Oysters, pint	33c to 40c
Clams, pint	33c to 35c
Mackerel	8c to 9c
Salt cod (shredded)	23c to 29c
Oranges, doz.	33c to 40c
Apples, Baldwins, 4 lbs.	23c
Apples, McIntosh, 4 lbs.	25c to 29c

(These prices are quoted by the Mass. Dept. of Agriculture.)

Martin Pattern

Pattern 9982 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3 yards 39-inch fabric and ¾-yard contrast. To get this pattern send 15 cents to Boston Evening American, Pattern Department, 232 West 18th Street, New York, N. Y. An additional 10 cents brings you our new spring pattern book, ready now. Smart, easy-to-make styles for the entire family.

PIE-MAKING

A mixture of shortening, salt, and flour may be kept in the refrigerator ready for the addition of water when there's a pie to be made. Another time saver is to mix pie dough, form into a ball, cover with wax paper, and chill in refrigerator until needed. Since chilling helps make pastry flaky, place pastry-lined pans in the refrigerator while the filling is being prepared.

Major Eliot Analyzes Strategy Used by Japs

liminary, since air support for such a move could not be given from Davao, as it is too far away.

U. S. AID FELT

The Japanese landings on the Minahassa Peninsula of Celebes, and their air attack on Ternate, betray an equal anxiety over control of the Molucca Passage, the other main waterway through the Dutch islands in this vicinity. The extent to which these air operations have drawn upon the Japanese reserves of air power is indicated by the outcome of an artillery battle in Luzon, when 11 Japanese batteries were put out of action by American guns.

This seems hardly conceivable if the Japanese were able to concentrate heavy air attacks against the American firing positions. The suggestion that they have drawn off a great part of their air strength in the Philippines to Davao and points south is a very strong one.

Viewing this situation from another angle, we note considerable evidence of increased American air strength in the Netherlands Indies, where the Japanese by no means have been having it all their own way. It seems quite likely that the waters round and about Borneo and Celebes and the islands lying east of Celebes may be the scene of increasing air and naval activity in the near future as Allied pressure develops against the Japanese.

Another source of anxiety for the Japanese is the increasing British air and land strength in Burma, from which attacks are being directed against the Japanese lines of communication and supply depots in Thailand.

Coupled with evidence that Singapore is receiving air reinforcements, the whole picture is one which should occasion the Japanese high command considerable anxiety. This is not to say that it is a rosy picture from the Allied point of view; not by any means. The Japanese, by seizing the initiative have gained great advantages, and there is as yet no indication of a firm British stand in Malaya, where the British are still falling back.

HITLER NO. 1 ENEMY

But the Japanese are fighting against time, as previously pointed out. Their air power is becoming more and more scattered, more and more widely extended, in their desperate effort to cover the main theater of operation and to hold the Allies at a distance.

There are definite limitations to this type of strategy, especially when it is considered that the Japanese must maintain adequate forces in their mandated islands to watch the direct approach from Pearl Harbor; that they still have a war in China on their hands with an active and vigorous enemy now taking the offensive against them; and that they can never afford to forget the brooding shadow of the Russians in the north.

The Allied problem in the Far East is not so much whether it would be possible to relieve Singapore and Luzon and drive the Japanese back on the defensive if an all-out Allied effort were made to do so. It is rather one of the amount and character of the resources which can be allocated to such an effort without weakening vital positions in the Atlantic and the Mediterranean.

After all, Germany is the main enemy and the most dangerous one. This must always be kept in mind by those who are charged with directing Allied strategy. On the other hand, they must also ask themselves whether they dare to face complete defeat in the Pacific, such as would result from a Japanese occupation of Singapore and the Netherlands Indies — whether the results of such a catastrophe might not have a most serious effect on the conduct of the war against Germany.

Considering the comparatively limited fighting forces now actually available to the Allies, and their heavy responsibilities in various parts of the world, these are problems which call for the most carefully considered examination.

Boy Scouts Train for Air Raids

Using the technique of Indian runners, gliding from one sheltered spot to the next, 75 members of the Waltham District Boy Scouts, Sachem Council, are learning how to serve as couriers for air raid wardens in time of possible raids or other emergency.

Frank Sherman, co-ordinator between the Scouts and the local public safety committee, is directing the instruction of the boys.

JUNIOR ARMY

The group will hold weekly meetings for instruction and will shortly be equipped with steel helmets and other necessary equipment.

Many of the youngsters will take their places in manual training workshops to help in making jigsaw puzzles and other games for USO distribution to the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, while all of them are planning to join in working on victory gardens.

The Cabot Reservation in Waltham will be turned over for planting of a victory garden to supplement regular food supplies and free them for distribution to the armed forces, not only of the U. S. but all the united nations. Many of the boys will not only assist in farming the Cabot reservation garden, but will plant victory gardens in their own back yards.

ABOUT MEAT

It pays to learn to cook the less expensive cuts of meat in ways that everyone will thoroughly enjoy. A stew, carefully seasoned, can be wonderfully good. So can breast of lamb. Pot roast is superb when it is nicely browned. Some of the most nutritious meats are very reasonably priced. Fish is an inexpensive source of protein, too, and this weekend Mackerel is plentiful and reasonably priced.

BUILDERS ASSURED U. S. AID IN LOW-COST DEFENSE HOMES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Privately financed home builders of Boston and other metropolitan defense areas today had assurance that they will be given all the priority quotas needed to build low-cost, rental-sale, units for war industry workers.

Addressing a conference of the National Home Builders' Ass'n, Kent J. Owens, assistant to the housing priorities director of OPM, said:

"The operative builder, developing under the liberalized FHA defense housing plan and willing to start and complete in short order a home building program, can be assured our facilities and adequate critical list materials will be made available immediately."

The conference was told that of the 200,000 defense housing units assigned to private builders last September only 150,000 have actually been undertaken to date.

Sumner D. Hersey, executive vice-president of the Associated Home Builders of Massachusetts, declared builders of this State will agree to construct all the houses required if the FHA will recognize complete cost of construction.

Hersey will confer with the OPM and other government officials to work out the mechanics of the program.

Frank A. Vanderlip, Jr., coordinator of private construction, pledged the support of his agency in pressing for congressional action which would liberalize the FHA procedure and put the private builder on a parity with the publicly financed housing program. Such action, he declared, would accelerate the defense housing program.

Hamburg and Emden Again Hit by RAF

LONDON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The German ports of Hamburg and Emden were attacked last night by strong forces of the bomber command for the second successive night, the air ministry reported today. The British said their planes left large fires burning in both ports.

Other objectives in northwest Germany and enemy airdromes in the low countries also were reported bombed. Six aircraft were acknowledged lost.

U. S. Wounded Reach Australia

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The War Department reports the safe arrival at Darwin, Australia, of the Army hospital ship Mactan with soldiers and sailors who were wounded in action in the Philippines.

The ship left Manila just before the New Year. A commercial inter-island vessel, the Mactan was converted into a hospital ship and appropriately marked in accordance with the Geneva convention to assure safety from enemy attack.

The brief Army communique telling of the Mactan did not state how many wounded it had removed to safety.

U. S. Fliers Bag 100 Jap Planes

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—The American volunteer group has destroyed between 90 and 100 Japanese planes since the start of the war in the western Pacific, BBC reported today, quoting the Chungking radio.

Against this toll, according to the BBC, the Americans have lost only three airmen and three planes. The Americans have been operating with the RAF in raids from Burma on Japanese-held Thailand.

Willkie Backs Red as Citizen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie asserted in a brief filed today with the Supreme Court that active membership in the Communist party or belief in the principles of the organization was not sufficient grounds for denial of American citizenship.

The 1940 Republican presidential nominee urged the tribunal to reverse a decision by the Ninth Federal Circuit Court ordering cancellation of the citizenship of William Schneiderman, state secretary of the Communist party for California and a native of Rumanov, Russia.

Hints on how to be a Happy Wife
by GRACIE ALLEN

To be a happy wife, one of the first things to do, I always say, is to get married. Then—and this is important—get some Swan Soap! Look...

SWAN'S MORE FUN IN THE BATH!
Yeah, I know, any bath is fun, but a Swan bath is super-extra-elegant, what with that fresh smell and that smooth cake and those oodles of lather!

←HINT: Swan bathtub singers are sweeter.

SWAN'S MORE FUN IN THE KITCHEN!
You can have fun faster in the kitchen if you'll suds up some Swan. It suds twice as fast as old-time floaties... even in water that's hard like anything.

←HINT: You'll be happier if he does dishes with Swan.

SWAN'S MORE FUN IN THE NURSERY!
Babies are learning to talk earlier these days, so's they can ask their mas to buy Swan. They love Swan because it's pure as imported castiles.

←HINT: To keep Junior purty, Swan him when he's dirty.

SWAN'S MORE FUN ANYWHERE!
Try it and see, you'll love it like me. Use Swan all over the house. Swan Soap is a honey, more real soap for your money.

←HINT: Here's a nifty—use Swan. It's thrifty

Two convenient sizes—Large and Regular

Why don't you try SWAN SOAP!
It's 8 ways better than old-style floaties
1. Whiter! Purer and mild as imported castiles!
2. Suds twice as fast!
3. Firmer! Lasts and lasts! Won't warp!
4. Richer, creamier lather—even in hard water!
5. Breaks smoother—easily!

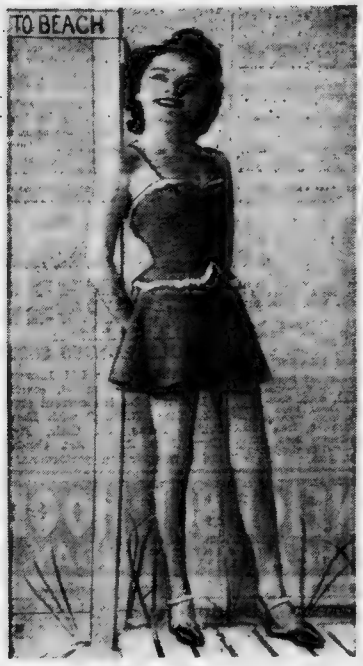
Fashion



REAL, HAND CROCHETED lace on a bathing suit still further removes us from the days of functional wool suits which were forced on all bathers . . . even those sun lizards (among which you'd find us) who didn't imitate seals in the surf, in fact didn't plunge into it zealously and often! To make you look pretty while you laze, here's a turquoise green celanese sharkskin suit trimmed with hand-crocheted white Irish lace edging, repeated on that nonsensical, non-functional brief waistline peplum!—ANNICE BRINK.

FROUFROU EMPLOYED TO CHANGE CLOCHE

By BETTINA BEDWELL

WHAT Lilly Dache calls her "Hook-and-eye cloche" is a new millinery idea designed to aid and abet the career woman in her varied social life. Madame Dache makes a felt, skeleton cloche that fastens at the nape of the neck with a decorative hook and eye. And to go with it, but entirely separate, she makes a froufrou affair of pastel chiffon and flowers, attached to a comb, that can be added to the cloche whenever you have an unexpected date after 5 and want to wear some glamour on your pretty head.

Just what it looks like is explained very clearly in Miss Dulin's sketches. You see the back felt hook-and-eye cloche with and without the yellow chiffon, rose decked froufrou that goes on at the back and falls around the shoulders.

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

• FOOD •

By Martha Lee

DO YOU WASTE time doing a lot of unnecessary things? For instance, do you peel potatoes? You don't have to. Even if you are having mashed potatoes, boil them with the jackets. They are easy to skin when they are cooked and you will be saving all the valuable minerals which are often pared away. Mashed or creamed potatoes prepared from potatoes that have been cooked in their own skins have a richer and finer flavor too.

Here are a few other hints and ideas to add to the efficiency and success of running a household kitchen:

1—Keep a small bowl of finely chopped parsley on hand in the refrigerator. It adds so much to many dishes and if you have to stop to chop some every time you prepare a dish, you are likely to leave it out. Put a handful in omelets, mashed or creamed potatoes, sauces, sandwich spreads, etc. Use it as a garnish for creamed soups, sprinkle some in a green salad, have it ready and handy for stuffings.

2—Keep you kitchen cutlery sharp. There is nothing that makes food preparation seem so arduous as a dull knife. Have you ever noticed how your butcher wouldn't cut so much as a lamb chop without first sharpening his knife. One of the good, old-fashioned sharpening steels is the best thing to have hanging right on your work table, and arrange to have your knives sharpened periodically by a professional knife sharpener.

3—Save on your fuel bills and the necessity of constantly watching meats and vegetables while they are cooking by providing yourself with good heavy cooking utensils, such as copper-clad, stainless steel ware.

4—If you want your mashed potatoes and omelets light and fluffy, add a pinch of baking powder.

5—When your teakettle is not in use, empty it and wipe it dry. Water in many localities is very hard and leaves a lime deposit in teakettles and other utensils used for boiling water. This deposit may be removed by heating vinegar in the utensil.

FOAMY OMELET

6 egg yolks
6 tbsp. water
½ tsp. salt
Dash of pepper
6 egg whites, stiffly beaten
2 tbsp. butter

Beat egg yolks with water, add seasonings, and beat together until foamy. Fold the stiffly beaten egg whites into the mixture. Melt butter in heavy frying pan. Add mixture and cook over low heat, shaking pan until omelet is slightly brown underneath. Place in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 10 minutes, until dry on top. Cut part way through center. Fold and place on platter or plate. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Grated cheese may be sprinkled over the omelet before it is baked.

EVEN FOR mashed potatoes, boil them with jackets on.

SPECIAL CREAM SAUCE FOR CREAM SOUPS

6 tbsp. butter
1 medium-sized onion, sliced
3 tbsp. flour
1½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
3 cups milk

Melt butter, add onion, and cook over low heat 5 minutes, until yellow. Remove onion, if desired. Stir in flour and seasonings, and when well blended, add milk slowly, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture boils. Makes 3 cups.

Note: Diced celery or carrots may be cooked with the onion for additional flavor.

The Correct Thing

By Elinor Ames

YOU MAY EXCHANGE IT!

It's always permissible to exchange a gift that you can't use or don't honestly like. (The one whose gift is exchanged should not feel annoyed.)

Beauty

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL.—Symbolical of summertime are the embroidered roses and rose-motif jewelry Maureen O'Hara wears . . . and Arline Gould says that symbolical of springtime is a "double feature" beauty special of foundation lotion and powder to give your face a May day softness.

SPRINGTIME FRESHNESS RESTORED BY LOTION

By ARLINE GOULD

PERHAPS YOU wonder . . . sometimes . . . when on a pallid winter morning you look into the mirror . . . you wonder just where the shining springtime face that was reflected there only last May has vanished. You count off the enemies that have stolen the soft freshness of your complexion . . . that siege of December colds . . . the extra hours you put into the office or defense work . . . too many late hours piled against each other.

We wish we could tell you of some potent elixir which would return to the image in the mirror the bloom of last spring . . . and strangely enough, the closest we can come to it . . . giving your complexion at least the semblance of soft bloom, which ought to be enough for your purposes! . . . is to recommend a lotion which is so good that they say it gives "springtime freshness to winter complexions!"

This is perhaps the lushest, most dew-giving make-up foundation in lotion form . . . especially contrived for dry skins, of course. And the news about it which makes it of importance to all budget-hemmed-in girls (no exceptions to that situation these days) is that you may have it actually for free, for no, for nothing!

It all comes about through an introductory "double feature" special . . . in which a big box of one of the loveliest face powders this old earth has ever seen is teamed up with the full size bottle of lotion . . . both for the price of the face powder alone, or $2!

If this face powder is just a name to you (it's far-famed) then you have a delightful surprise ahead . . . especially if your idea of the perfect powder is one of the infinite softness and lightness, which blends with your skin and makes it look as though it has not been powdered. It transfers tint and softness to your face with utter perfection.

To learn about this "double feature" special, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, except the weekend, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PREVIEW: Some of the most beautiful colors seen for resort and early spring wear are by Anthony Blotta, and are taken from the pastel colors seen on fine English china.

'All Through the Night' Mixes Gangland With Gestapo

Bogart Plays Killer Role

"All Through the Night," Warner Brothers production directed by Vincent Sherman, with Humphrey Bogart, Conrad Veidt, Kaaren Verne, Jane Darwell, Frank McHugh, Peter Lorre, Judith Anderson, William Demarest, Phil Silvers, Wally Ford, Barton MacLane, Edward Brophy. Story by Leonard Q. Ross and Leonard Spigelgass.

By PEGGY DOYLE

Leave it to "Killer" Bogart. Just let Shicklegruber's Gestapo and the "fifers" do their heil-ing when the screen bad boy is on their slimy trails, and they'll wish they were all back home in a nice, quiet concentration camp.

For the ex-lord of the underworld is Class 1-A in "All Through the Night," in which the Fifth Column mixes it up with gangland at the Met. You guess who wins!

Bogart is "Gloves" Donohue, who always bets on a sure thing, has pockets full of folding money, an adoring mother, a heart of pure gold and Frank McHugh and William Demarest as a couple of sidekicks.

The boys are at the ball game. The bases are loaded and the count is two. But Ma Jane Darwell calls up and they never know the final tally. "It's urgent," says Ma, and it's the beginning of the busiest day and night, with a thrill every second, that you and Humphrey ever had.

First of all, there's a nice old man who ran a bakery downstairs in Mom's house. Bogart finds his body stuffed full of bullets and into a chest in the cellar. What Humphrey doesn't know, and you do, is that the poor old fellow had been brutally murdered by Peter Lorre, because he refused to work for Adolf's agents. But Mom has her hunches, and her son has what it takes.

The trail leads first to a night club, where Kaaren Verne is crooning, and the leering Lorre is playing the piano. It's run by Bogart's former gang rival, Barton MacLane, and before you can say Heil, there's another dead man on the carpet.

A SIREN and a soldier who would be Gene Tierney and Bruce Cabot, kiss and make up in "Sundown," the Walter Wanger production with an East African locale now showing on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

DON AMECHE EXCITING AS FOREIGN CORRESPONDENT IN 'CONFIRM OR DENY'

Censorship Trials Thrill

"Confirm Or Deny," 20th Century-Fox picture directed by Archie Mayo. Screen play by Jo Swerling from story by Henry Wales and Samuel Fuller. At the Paramount and Fenway.

By JOYCE DANA

As a preview of things likely to come to our star-spangled shores, "Confirm or Deny," 20th Century-Fox cinema closeup of the 1940 Sept. air-blitz of London now crackling across the Paramount and Fenway screens, has considerable human interest and some thoroughly exciting sequences.

Don Ameche, the man who discovered the telephone for the movie-fans during a sabbatical leave from his screen song-and-dance prancings, give a virile portrayal of a typical "Front Page" foreign correspondent.

MR. HUMDINGER

When he gets to work, his fabulous initiative and powers of persuasion make the Richard Harding Davises and the H. R. Knickerbockers seem like upstarts fresh out of a school of journalism. His sales-talk to expedite news releases during the first blitzkrieg accomplishes the Ministry of Information feat of assigning censor John Loder to his new offices.

The astounding American learns, however, that bucking British censorship is something like the Nazis attempting to blitz Britain's bulldog courage. As Censor Loder puts it:

"Of course the British Intelligence knows that Hitler plans to invade England by the Channel route, but the British Intelligence doesn't want the German Intelligence to know that the British Intelligence knows."

THE LADY WINS

And so "censored," "censored," "censored" inks out many of his hottest news leads.

Even the Ministry of Information's pretty and spunky teletypist, Joan Bennett, whose transfer to his news offices Ameche contrives just like that, worsts him when he would scoop the world. But it's a pleasure, thank you, and Newspaperman Ameche forgives her with a hug and a proposal.

JOAN BENNETT

'Hedda Gabler' Here Monday

Katina Paxinou, first lady of the Greek theater who is to make her American debut in English at the Colonial Theater in the Ibsen classic, "Hedda Gabler," on Monday evening, will be greeted by a delegation of Greek citizens on her arrival here this evening.

To Cecil Humphreys, who will support Miss Paxinou, goes the honor of having appeared oftener on local stages within the last theatrical season than any other Broadway actor. He was seen in "A Passenger to Bali," with Walter Huston; "An International Incident," with Ethel Barrymore; "The Doctor's Dilemma," with Katharine Cornell, and in Marblehead last summer in "Captain Brassbound's Conversion," with Jane Cowl.

Melchior to Appear Here Next Month

Lauritz Melchior will be heard in his first Jordan Hall concert Sunday afternoon, Feb. 1. The noted Wagnerian tenor of the Metropolitan Opera will present a miscellany of songs by Norwegian and Swedish composers, in addition to songs by Schubert and Beethoven and selections from Wagnerian operas.

THE BALLET THEATER'S Anton Dolin and Irina Baronova, stars of "Bluebeard," smash-hit of the company's recent New Year season. This is Michel Fokine's newest comedy ballet based on Offenbach's music and chosen as one of three ballets to open the Ballet Theater's four-day engagement at the Boston Opera House next Wednesday evening.

"In this dream I didn't even fall down once!"

Baer Compiles Irritating Items of Fact

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Flash: All Pekinese dogs in this country date back to the five pets of the Empress captured by the British in the Pekin Summer palace in 1860. Unflash.

Dibs and Dabs: 1. Very few people use the word "instantaneity." 2. Jipper is gravy and very tasty too. 3.

Irritating Information: 1. When you misguggle anything you put it out of commission by too much handling. 2. More than ten is a multitude. 3. The sacred Egyptian bull Bacchis changed color every hour. 4.

Daily Double: 1. There hasn't been a Great Mogul since 1806. 2. The African Gree-Gree man will sell you charms and fetishes.

Explanation of the Above: Don't I make myself clear?

7-DAY WEEK DUE FOR EAST SHIPYARDS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16 (INS) —Pacific coast shipyards today were pledged to an around-the-clock production schedule for seven full days a week.

A full speed ahead ship construction schedule for the duration of the war was agreed upon by representatives of labor, industry and government in a two-day conference called by OPM.

The agreement was the first of its kind to be drafted for the nation's shipyards. Similar schedules were planned for east coast, Gulf and Great Lakes yards.

The Pacific coast agreement was expected to be placed into effect shortly after Feb. 1. It must be ratified first by international unions and by the OPM in Washington.

Terms of the far-reaching pact provide that:

1—All plants will operate on a 24-hour, 7-day basis.

2—All workers will be placed on a 48-hour, six-day week schedule with Sundays regarded as a regular work day instead of a holiday drawing double pay.

3—All overtime in excess of 40 hours will be paid at the rate of time and one-half. In cases where an individual is called in time of emergency to work a seventh continuous day he will be paid the double time rate.

Buckless Seeks All-America Title

WILLARD BUCKLESS of Saugus, who will represent the East in the All-America finals at the Garden a week from Monday night, looked the part of the perfect fighting man as he dropped into this office following a hard gym workout. Buckless is five feet 9½ inches tall and weighs 147 pounds. In his eyes, was the bright flash one sees when a boxer is prepared to step into action.

Buckless told me he was 21 years of age and that he has been boxing for two years.

"I have had 83 bouts and have won 38 of them by knockouts," he said simply. "Dave Andrews has given me the most trouble. I have defeated him three times, while he has also won from me on three occasions. I lost my three bouts to Andrews in Boston.

"I regret Dave is now a pro. Otherwise I feel I could beat him now."

I asked Buckless which was his better fighting hand.

"I have scored most of my knockouts with right hand punches," he replied, "but I also hit pretty good with my left.

"It has been my good fortune to have had Walter Nelson of Malden as my trainer. Nelson is a former New York State champion. He has taught me what I know about boxing.

"Nelson also trains George Perkins, Red Perkins, Eddie Barnes and Timmy Sheldon, and I have boxed with these boys a great deal. Most amateurs lack sparring partners which is why their timing is off when they step into action."

Family of 12

Buckless is a member of a family of twelve. In addition to the young boxer's mother and father, there are eight boys and two girls in the family.

"I am a twin," said the Eastern champion. "Brother Ray and myself look so much alike that it is almost impossible to tell us apart. Ray is also a welterweight boxer. On occasion we have substituted for each other with, of course, telling the promoter of the shift. Other than a little shuffle I have in the ring, our styles are the same.

"My brother Al, who is in the Army, is also a boxer. Al is a light heavyweight. My brother Gordon is a featherweight. There is really no need for me to go outside of my family circle to get action in the ring. My dad, too, can box.

"My father is a construction engineer and is associated with the Lynn Gas Co."

Mulligan Hardest Foe

Buckless stated that Jimmy Mulligan of Lowell, national 160-pound champion, gave him his hardest fight.

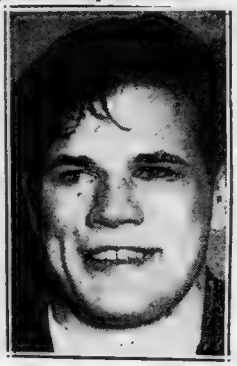
"How Jimmy can hit!" exclaimed Buckless. "He was the first southpaw I ever fought and he gave me a lot of trouble. I didn't have the same difficulties when I boxed Mulligan for the second time. By then I had learned how to battle a southpaw.

Buckless graduated from Saugus High in 1938. Since Buckless won the welterweight title in the All-Eastern championships of the All-America tourney, Buckless has been invited to give a boxing exhibition before the 900 sthudents of Saugus High.

"As part of the athletic show, I shall arrange several boxing exhibitions," said Buckless. "I shall stage the show Feb. 4."

It is the first time in the history of New England that an amateur boxer has been honored in this way by his school. It is a fitting tribute to a splendid type of American athlete.

Buckless has been boxing since he was five years of age. His father had a gym in the family garage and the Buckless boys would don the gloves and let their punches fly.



WILLARD BUCKLESS

When Willard was 15 years old, he met Walter Nelson. The latter then started to school him in boxing.

Buckless was a natural and he absorbed the words of boxing wisdom that fell from Nelson's lips.

"Gene Tunney was then my boxing idol, as he is today," said Buckless. "Tunney reached the top in boxing by giving proper attention to training and by being determined to become champion. I shall try to emulate Tunney's feats."

• • •

Buckless is expected to put up the greatest battles of his colorful career when he clashes with the champions of Chicago, Pittsburgh and of New England in the All-America finals at the Garden a week from Monday night.

Gotham Scribes Honor Mel Ott

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (INS)—Mel Ott, the new manager of the New York Giants, today was voted the award annually bestowed by the New York baseball writers upon the man rated as having rendered outstanding service to baseball over a long period of time.

A plaque will be presented to Ott at the writers' annual dinner here Feb 1.

Dempsey Unable To Join Navy At Present Time

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Jan. 16 (AP)—Jack Dempsey, replying to an invitation to come to Muskogee and join the Navy, said today that he was not in position to accept at present.

He intimated he might act on the suggestion later.

Navy Recruiting Officer A. I. Husted wired the invitation after the former heavyweight champ was rejected by the Army because of his age.

The reply said: "I am not in position to accept at present, due to the fact that I am waiting to hear from Washington. However, I will advise you accordingly, after I know something definite."

F. D. R. BACKS BASEBALL, URGES MORE NIGHT PLAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt, a baseball fan from way back, urged that the national sport be kept going during the war. This was his personal rather than official point of view, expressed in a letter today to Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball high commissioner, who had written on Jan. 14, inquiring what the President had in mind regarding continuance of professional baseball in wartime.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that fewer people would be unemployed, that the people would be working harder and longer hours than ever before, and hence should have an opportunity for recreation taking their minds off their work.

He suggested, too, that there be more night games because they would give day workers a chance to see an occasional contest.

Mr. Roosevelt said that 300 teams, using 5000 to 6000 players, would be a definite recreational asset to at least 20,000,000 people and in his judgment this was thoroughly worthwhile.

Landis, in his letter, written in longhand from Chicago, noted the time was approaching when the ball clubs, under ordinary conditions, would be heading for spring training camps.

He said his inquiry relative to continuing the sport did not pertain in any way to individual members of teams whose status was fixed by the draft law.

Mr. Roosvelt asserted that he believed players meeting the necessary military or naval qualifications should go into the services without question. This, he said, should not dampen the popularity of the sport.

The President added, however, that the final decision on keeping baseball going rested with the club owners.

'Do or Die' For Zivic

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—Some time between 10 and 11 o'clock tonight, Eastern Standard Time, fearless Fritzie Zivic is going to find out whether it's chicken or feathers from now on in his career of cauliflowering ears.

No one knows better than the youngest of Pittsburgh's five flying Zivics of sock that another beating at the hands of Ray Robinson, Harlem's skinny hammer, in Madison Square Garden will just about wash Fritzie up on the big time.

And, since he has become quite fond of steaks and sedans after his years on coffee-and-cakes and a peanut truck, Zivic has worked himself into shape to go the full 12 rounds against the Negro youngster.

What's more, Fritzie has an added incentive, for out of tonight's tussle can come a chance for the revenge he has been after since Freddie the Red Cochrane took his world welterweight championship away in Elizabeth, N. J., last summer.

Promoter Mike Jacobs has said that tonight's winner will go to work with Freddie the Red for the title Feb. 20 for the benefit of the Fight Infantile Paralysis fund.

So you can bet Fritzie won't be out just for the air this time.

Strizich Waiting For Draft Papers

MILES CITY, Mont., Jan. 16 (AP)—Joe Strizich became football coach at Miles City High when his predecessor was called into the Army.

He took over basketball, too, when the coach of that sport received a similar summons.

Now the draft board is doing some reclassifying and Joe's waiting for his papers.

Boston, Philly Critics Praise Derby Ice Star

Several hundred speed skaters scattered all over New England are awaiting the gun to send them away in the seventh annual America-Record Silver Skates Derby at the Boston Garden Sunday afternoon.

In the space of seven years this great Derby has grown to be one of the winter classics of New England.

provide a thousand and one thrills and laughs, stars of international fame are featured in this great event.

PHILLY EXHIBITION

Naturally, the name of Ariane heads the list. Ariane's presence is a bit unusual and well worth the telling.

Each year the Silver Skates committee uncovers a figure skater not too well known to New England fans, and the choices have been amazingly successful.

By introducing stars such as Vera Hruba, Hazel Franklin, Megan Taylor, Erna Anderson and Red McCarthy in past years, promoters and agents from all over the country watch the Silver Skates Derby events with great interest.

Every featured skater who has ever shown in the Derby has been flooded with offers after the Boston showing. As a result, stars from every part of the world try to take part in the Derby.

The committee, however, has its own method of selecting applicants.

Word arrived sometime ago that Ariane, the 18-year-old Swiss Gold Medalist and international figure skating champion, had arrived in this country. Her great European record was not enough to warrant her appearance here as a special unannounced exhibition was scheduled in Philadelphia so that the committee could see her perform.

So great was her performance that the Derby heads insist she is the greatest skater to show here ever.

Boston critics reserved opinion until this week when they saw her practice at the Garden and now they too are using nothing but superlatives in regard to her skating, charm and beauty.

GET IN FOR 44 CENTS

Thus Ariane gets top billing and rightfully so, but there's a host of other stars competing including Jane Weiss, Hal Haig, Ernie Howe and Joe Shillan.

The greatest feature of all is that this entire show is within the price range of everybody.

The entire first balcony and the stadium, which make up 13,000 of the Garden seats, are all unreserved. The price for any one of them is 44 cents and it's first come first served.

The few reserved seats are priced at 55 cents.

Why not take the family?

BINGHAM RAPPED FOR ICE COACH SHUFFLE

Sharp criticism of his move in forcing varsity hockey coach Clark Hodder to resign was directed today at Bill Bingham, Harvard's athletic director, by the undergraduate daily the Crimson.

Declaring that Bingham had made Hodder the scapegoat for players' "indiscretions" during the "social" series with Coach Dick Vaughn's Princeton sextet at Lake Placid, the Crimson placed responsibility for the incident, in which Harvard and Princeton player allegedly broke training and caused extensive property damage to their accommodations, on the shoulders of the players.

The Crimson said that one of the Princeton party first "suggested" the mutual break in training and went on:

"After some consideration, Hodder agreed, feeling that such an action would improve the feelings of the two teams, both a little strained after three days of hard hockey. At the time the damage occurred Hodder was in bed."

The Crimson also said that by personal talks with coach and offenders, Bingham have affixed financial responsibility for damage rendered, and let the matter go at that, for the present.

Had the affair been left to die a natural death, the course taken by Princeton authorities, a far from unusual collegiate happening would have met its merited fate, the Crimson also said.

The Crimson stated that in the midst of what promised to be the best hockey season since the days of Austie Harding, the squad is placed in the charge of a new coach, who, although very able and a keen student of the game, is unfamiliar with his players, and who, because of other responsibilities, must be in New York one day out of every week.

The new coach, John P. Chase, is president of an investment counselors' firm.

NELSON LIKED OVER CHIMMY AT MECHANICS

Henry Chmielewski, Cambridge, and Frankie Nelson, Roxbury, square off tonight in the 10-round feature of the weekly Boston Boxing Ass'n show at Mechanics Building.

Nelson, called the "best looking Negro middleweight since Tiger Flowers," is a slim favorite because of his boxing skill.

Nelson hits a powerful lick, too. Not so powerful, however, as Chimmy, who really throws leather-cloaked destruction. The winner has been promised a shot at Ken Overlin, former world 160-pound champion.

Both Chimmy and Nelson have pleased B. B. A. audiences at the Huntington ave. hall. Chimmy walloped Jackie Donovan so soundly in the first B. B. A. production last Oct. 22 that Donovan retired from the ring. Nelson kayoed Larry Kellum and then gave rugged Milo Theodorescu a severe whipping.

Al Sforza, North End, and Al Luciano, Lynn, clash in the 8-round semi-final, a return bout of their thrilling draw recently in Lynn.

Larry Pacino, regarded by matchmaker Jack O'Brien as the best of all the young fistic prospects in New England, features the preliminary card, meeting Jack "Wild Man" Dubois in a six.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan 16 (AP)—Albatross, unbeaten at Hialeah as a 2-year-old, heads a list of 14 thoroughbreds expected to enter the $3000 added Hialeah Stakes Saturday, inaugurating the campaign for 3-year-olds. Other likely entrants are Air Current, Alohort, American Wolf, Curious Roman, First Fiddle, Hialeah and Kokomo.

Providence Whips R. I. State, 60-54

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 16 (AP)—Providence College rolled on as one of the East's leading basketball teams by defeating Rhode Island State, 60 to 54, before 5824 fans at the Auditorium.

The Friars are undefeated and have won seven games. State held a 36-32 edge at the half.

Ted McConnon of the Friars took scoring honors with 18 points. In the prelim the unbeaten Providence College freshmen defeated R. I. State's freshmen, 74-65.

300 Track Entries For Malden Meet

More than 300 entries have been received for the third annual track and field meet to be held at the Farnsworth G. Marshall Gym at Malden tomorrow afternoon.

The 600 yard open has drawn a fast field with Art Watkins, schoolboy standout, and Roy Valente of Tufts heading the list.

Service men from Camp Edwards, 369 C. A., Fort Standish and the Marines at Charlestown will vie for honors in the 40 yards dash.

BRUINS FACE TRIPLE TIE IN N. H. L. RACE

By the Associated Press

Toronto Maple Leafs are back in a second-place tie with the New York Rangers in the National Hockey League today, but the Brooklyn Americans are thinking of taking a long-term lease on the sixth position after missing their fourth chance in a week to advance a notch.

Toronto pulled even with the Rangers last night by tripping the last-place Canadiens, 3-2, in an overtime struggle.

The Americans, catching fifth-place Detroit with an open date, again missed the boat by losing to the Chicago Black Hawks, 7-4, and still trail the Red Wings by a single point.

Nick Metz scored the winning goal for the Maple Leafs at Detroit, taking the pass from Syl Apps when the overtime period was only 11 seconds old.

Almost before the Canadiens had settled in their positions, Apps broke away from center ice, eluded the defense and passed to Metz, who beat goalie Paul Bibeault.

At Madison Square Garden, the Black Hawks gave Earl Robertson a rough reception. The veteran Brooklyn goalie returned from the Springfield Indians to replace the injured Charlie Rayner temporarily.

3-WAY TIE SEEN

Doug Bentley and Cully Dahlstrom led the assault on Robertson, each bagging a pair of goals and an assist.

With Pat Egan and Norm Larson leading the way, the Americans tied the game up in each of the first two periods, but Bentley put the Hawks out in front to stay midway in the second stanza.

While the league-leading Boston Bruins remain off the ice until Sunday night, they may find themselves in a three-way deadlock if the Rangers and Maple Leafs produce triumphs when they return to action tomorrow night.

The Rangers play at Montreal and the Maple Leafs entertain the Black Hawks in the only contests on the Saturday night slate.

Victories for either or both of the deadlocked second-place outfits would boost their season's total to 35 points and a tie with Boston for the lead.

Dodgers May Call Off Havana Exhibition

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (Wide World)—There's gold in them thar gloves these long winter evenings.

Everywhere you turn an amateur mitt tournament is getting under way, and the promoters' fears that the boys would be too busy drilling or working to compete seem not to have been justified.

Newark, N. J., was looking for big things in its Golden Belt tourney from Stanley Minski, a former Catholic University footballer who is 6 feet 5 and weighs 230 until Cleveland came up with a 310-pounder, Alberigo (Rocco) Casale.

Transportation difficulties may force the Dodgers to call off their exhibition trip to Havana next spring . . . First report: Babe Kimbrough, Lexington (Ky.) Herald sports editor, picks Alsab, Sun Again, Bless Me and Devil Diver to finish in order in the 1942 Kentucky Derby.

Wendell Lalime, Newport (Vt.) Daily Express: "If Ted Williams gets into the infantry, he shouldn't be lonesome for the American League. He'll get walked there, too, and they won't go to the trouble of pitching four balls."

• • •

Lou Boudreau, four pounds heavier than last summer, says he has been building up so he will have something to worry off next season . . . Indianapolis is reported to be protesting the sale of Johnny McCarthy to the Giants by Columbus.

Donie Bush says Horace Stoneham had promised Johnny to the Indians.

Night baseball was first played at Des Moines, Ia. . . . Now there isn't any Des Moines club.

Page Judge Landis: The thoroughbred record reports that Alf Vanderbilt gave Larry MacPhail a Christmas present of two thoroughbred mares in foal. And, come spring, Larry will be a race hoss

When Billy Davis, the Minersville (Pa.) lightweight, lost a fight the other night, his manager, Jack Brady, came up with a new explanation. "Too much roadwork," said Jack, "walking the floor with his twins at night."

Lieut. A. M. Bissing of Fort Knox, Ky., is looking for a substitute's berth with a bowling team heading for the A. B. C. tournament. He would like to make the trip in order to roll in the minor events. Lieut. Bissing was Kansas singles and doubles champion last year.

The Newport (Va.) naval air station isn't going in for big time competition this season but would like to book a few crack college quintets for its new gym next year.

Checkup at Santa Clara U. shows former Bronco athletes in the services everywhere from Iceland to Trinidad. More than half the 39 listed are airmen.

When Lieut. Mike Calabrese went out to play basketball for Langley Field (Va.) the other night, the first thing he did was to locate his opponent to shake hands with him. The opposing player turned out to be Sergt. Frank Alberta of Camp Lee, Calabrese's teammate at Muskingum College two years ago.

Curt Horrman, Ray Robinson's manager, boxes four or five times a week for exercise and the Jacobs Beach boys are talking about throwing him out of the union.

Latest A. B. C. report is that bowling leagues have converted $189,000 in prize money into defenses tamps and Congress officials think that's about a fifth of what has been bought but not reported. Maria Lenk, the Brazilian swimmer, will remain in the U. S. to study physical training at Springfield College . . . Frank Barbaro, Detroit's quite hopeful promoter who put on the white hope heavyweight tournament, has been given a trophy—for courage.

Wood Champion Holder of Ghost Championships

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 16 (AP)—Golf professional Craig Wood calls himself "the champion holder of ghost championships."

He's got the national open golf championship cinched for the war period for the U. S. G. A. has cancelled the competition until peace returns.

"I won the Oklahoma City and Reddy Tee tournaments in 1929," said Wood. "They were never held again. I won the Galveston open in 1932, the Radium Springs open in 1933, the Lakes open in Australia in 1934, and the New York Metropolitan in 1940. None was ever held again."

GUN CLUBS AID HEARST SHOOT

Gun clubs all over New England are showing a great spirit of patriotism by co-operating with the William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Committee in teaching civilians the proper use of firearms.

Many interested people do not know the difference in the many types of equipment. Some gun clubs have indoor ranges only; others shoot outdoors exclusively while some have both types of ranges. Still others have .22-caliber ranges with no facilities for rifles.

Another problem facing the clubs is lack of ammunition used in certain types of ranges. However, .22 long rifle ammunition, which is being used in the Hearst shoot, is still available.

Regardless of facilities, all clubs are welcoming the opportunity to teach civilians the proper use of firearms—how to handle them safely, sanely and accurately.

Entries are still piling in for the big Hearst shoot. The closing date is January 30. Immediately after the windup date, the board will start grouping the clubs into leagues.

Blame 'Books' For Falloff In Mutuels

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 16 (AP)—The revival of horse racing in New Orleans is facing disaster somewhere in the tangled web of Louisiana politics.

The Fair Grounds, under new management after a year's idleness following abandonment of racing by the Louisiana Jockey Club, has done just about half as well as expected since opening of a 42-day meet on Christmas day. The daily take has been slightly under $54,000, instead of the $100,000 operators anticipated.

Most informed sources placed the principal blame for the low "take" at the track upon the operation of illegal handbooks, reliably estimated at more than 200 in the city and its environs. One authoritative source estimated the "bookies" were taking "conservatively $20,000 a day" from the track.

A recent public statement by John F. Clark, Jr., chairman of the State Racing Commission, cited the Louisiana laws against bookmaking outside a track enclosure and decried "lack of co-operation of the city and State Police in handling the handbook situation in New Orleans."

Bell Sees War Boon to Football

DALLAS, Jan. 16 (AP)—Matty Bell, president of the National Football Coaches Association, predicts the war will increase rather than retard college football activities.

"Those who feared the game would be curtailed can look forward to even more emphasis because the Army and Navy believe football valuable in training fighting men," the Southern Methodist University coach said.

He expects colleges to go out of their way to schedule games with service teams.

Cantab Waitkus, Up to 185 Pounds, To Battle Dahlgren for Cubs Post

By HERB FINNEGAN

Greater Boston is playing a prominent role in the Chicago Cubs youth movement. Lennie Merullo of East Boston is a headline candidate for shortstop; Barney Olsen of Everett has a dandy chance to cop an outfield post, and Eddie Waitkus of Cambridge will battle Babe Dahlgren down to the wire for the first base job.

Of course Uncle Sam may upset the best laid plans of Manager Jimmy Wilson and General Manager Jimmy Gallagher. Waitkus, you see, is in class 1-A and may be toting a gun before fall. Dahlgren, too, is well up on the selective service list and may be inducted into the service before Waitkus.

But for the first few months of the season, at least, Waitkus will be on hand to give Dahlgren the fight of his life.

6-1 AND ALL LEFTY

The Cubs are bent on rebuilding their club with youngsters. Even all-star third baseman Stan Hack is not sure of his job because the Cubs have a rip-snorting third base prospect in Rip Russell, from Tulsa, who is conceded an excellent chance of ousting the veteran. And Dahlgren is no safer than Hack.

Like Merullo and Olsen, Waitkus was up with the Cubs at the fag end of last season. Better, he was with them the entire first month of the campaign before being shipped to Tulsa.

A 6-1 left-hander hitter and thrower, he is one of the prize prospects of the Cubs' farm system.

Like Irving Jack Burns, Tommy Daly, Doc Gautreau, Gaspipe Sullivan and Warren Cote, the handsome 22-year-old Waitkus started his baseball career in Cambridge.

He was an all-scholastic first baseman at C. L. S., and his hitting is still raved about in Stove League circles. He had a scholarship for Duke in his duke when he received a tasty bonus from the Cubs, so he shunned the collegians and signed on the dotted line with the pros.

THAT TULSA HEAT

He spent the season of '39 at Moline, where he hit .330. In '40 he was promoted to Tulsa of the Texas League. There, where .300 hitters are a rarity, he hit .305, and led the league in four departments—total hits, doubles, triples and total bases.

After spending the first month of '41 with the Cubs, he was headed for Milwaukee when a hitch in plans sent him back to Tulsa. He wasn't any too pleased.

"Not," he was quick to add, "because I thought I was a big leaguer; just because that Tulsa heat is unbearable.

"For example, the day of the all-star game in Beaumont, it was 112 in the shade, and we had to play in the afternoon. All season long the heat is terrific.

"It's almost impossible to sleep, especially for a Northerner, and it takes all the starch out of a fellow. You lose your power at the plate after a while. I was down to 165 at the close of the season."

He was so thin, indeed, the Cubs advised him to take it easy during the winter, and try to put on weight. He has followed their advice religiously, sleeping 12 hours a night and eating as many as four meals a day.

LIKES RUSSELL, KUSH

For diversion he has been taking in football and hockey games and playing some handball at the "Y" to keep his legs and wind in trim.

"I weigh an even 185 now," said Eddie today, "and it's good, solid weight."

That is easy to believe because a healthier lad never punched a first baseman's mitt.

Waitkus has been the all-star first baseman in every league he's played in and, of course, his ambition is to take that rating away from Dolph Camilli this year.

He figures the Cubs ought to make their presence felt in the N. L. race because Tulsa alone is sending up two great players in Rip Russell, most valuable in the league (at third base) and Emil Kush, a right-hand pitcher who is figured a dead cinch to win in any league.

If he were more forward, Waitkus would have said Tulsa was sending up three great prospects because every baseball man who has seen the Cambridge blond in action claim he's one of the finest prospects Massachusetts ever sent to the majors.

A. L. President Calls Meeting for Feb. 2

CHICAGO, Jan. 16 (AP)—Will Harridge, president of the American League, has called a meeting of the circuit's members for Feb. 3 in New York.

"It will be a routine meeting with nothing special in sight for discussion," Harridge said.

ODDS AGAINST GOODMAN TURNING LEFTY AT 32

Ival Goodman, the Reds office reports, plans to throw left-handed this season because of repeated injuries to his right shoulder which have kept him in the background the past two years. Another Cincinnati outfielder, the famous Edd Roush, made the shift with great success years back, but his case was far different from Goodman's. Roush broke his right arm while a boy, and rather than remain idle all summer learned to throw with his left. He became so adept he remained a lefty. He batted left-handed, too, and his name is often mentioned these days in connection with the Hall of Fame. He was a great ballplayer, Roush, both with the Giants and Reds.

Whereas, Roush made the shift in boyhood, Goodman is 32 and nearly at the end of his rope. It is doubtful if he ever learns to throw well enough with his left arm to keep opponents from racing wild on him. It's hard for an old dog to pick up new tricks.

But should Goodman, by any miracle, stage a left-handed comeback, it would help the Reds cause immensely. In 1939 his .323 batting average was instrumental in driving the Reds to their first flag in 20 years. As is well known, it was the failure of the Reds outfielders to hit last year which kept them from winning their third straight pennant.

• • •

Cambridge baseball fans (of whom there are at least a million) like to recall the time Eddie Waitkus hit a ball over the right field fence at Cambridge Field . . . "It's 500 feet away from the plate if it's an inch," they insist, "and the only other player ever to turn the trick was Irving Jack Burns" . . . The latter, incidentally, spent seven years in the minors, with the Browns and Tigers.

• • •

Is travel more broadening than classroom education? . . . In the case of Eddie Waitkus it certainly has been . . . Whereas a few years back he was a shy, over-modest youngster, today he's a Beau Brummell who talks freely and intelligently . . . If, by any chance, he shouldn't make the major league grade, there is always the movies for a fellow of his type.

Tulsa finished second in the Texas League last season after starting off in the cellar . . . "It's difficult to match that Houston club," opines Waitkus, "because Branch Rickey stocks it at the beginning of the season, and it always gets away to a flying start" . . . Houston, you may recall sent Howard Pollett up to the Cards late in the season, and Pollett was a ball of fire during the closing weeks.

• • •

The Cubs will return to Catalina Island for training this spring, the dispatches say, even though it is 30 miles out from the West Coast

MGA TRIPS USGA BLOC BY BACKING '42 GOLF

By BILL GRIMES

For the first time in memory, the Massachusetts Golf Ass'n has had the fortitude to stand on its own feet and do its own thinking. This was clearly demonstrated when the executive committee of the M. G. A. voted to sponsor all state championships in open defiance of a strong local U. S. G. A. bloc.

During its annual meeting in New York, the U. S. G. A., by cancelling its four major tournaments, let itself in for considerable adverse criticism. If the M. G. A. had fallen in line with the U. S. G. A. that organization would have parted at the seams. What would it have had to offer to member clubs in return for the $50 to $75 annual dues? . . . The service section?

Doubtless the powers, which have been controlling the policies of the M. G. A. for many years, were stunned by the decision of the executive committee. Naturally, the vote was not unanimous. The powers that used to be had stooges planted to carry out their ideas. Fortunately, they didn't have enough to carry the vote.

The M. G. A. is planning to conduct numerous exhibition matches for charity this coming season. The big name professionals are the only worthwhile attractions available . . . The professionals who participated in the Big 8 a year ago at The Country Club for the British War Relief, left town with a bad taste in their mouths. They were bitter toward the M. G. A. executive who took it upon himself to inform them in writing how they should conduct themselves at The Country Club . . . The Big 8 pros, know as much about clubhouse and locker room etiquette as the most polished member of any country club. They are the cream of their chosen profession. They are gentlemen in every sense of the word.

They tell me the McGregor Co., manufacturers of golf balls, enticed Jimmy Demaret to quit Wee Burn and take over at the Plum Hollow Golf Club in the outskirts of Detroit . . . Ralph "Cooney" Weiland will coach the All-Star team in the exhibition game against the Bruins for the Army Relief Fund at the Boston Garden Feb. 6. Bill Linskey, of the Olympics, will be the trainer for the old timers.

• • •

During the Bruins' Thursday practice at the Garden, Bill "Flash" Hollett, who hogged the scoring in the Detroit game last Tuesday, popped his sacro-iliac. He thought he blew a cylinder head . . . Des Smith cannot figure out how Bobby Bauer was awarded the Lady Byng trophy last season. Yesterday, Bobby cut Des for a couple of stitches.

Slalom Tops Program For No. Conway Skiers

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Flags will fly, and skis will flash in thrilling competition on Cranmore mountain at North Conway on Sunday morning, where the Eastern Slopes Ski Club holds its first race of the current season. The event is to be run in the form of an inter-club giant slalom for men and women.

In this team race, ski clubs may enter four men, the best three to count, and no individual entry will be accepted. The deadline for entries is tomorrow at 9 p. m. in the Eastern Slopes regional office at North Conway. A large field is expected.

Individuals of teams competing must present their credentials at the base station office of the Skimobile before 9 a. m. on Sunday. This contest is sanctioned by the U. S. E. A. S. A.

Attractive trophies will be awarded to the winning teams, and prizes are listed for the first, second and third individual winners. The ladies of the Eastern Slope Ski Club will act as hostesses and will serve refreshments at a reception where the prizes will be awarded.

DOWNHILL DANGEROUS

Such a race, in our opinion, is most beneficial to the sport. The fact that it is an affair for ski clubs encourages such organizations to develop teams of racers of both sexes.

Competition in any sport means advancement in ability and technique. Skiing, particularly, breeds stamina and a fighting spirit, so necessary in the world of today.

We would like to see more and more slalom races scheduled, and dangerous downhill events diminish. Cross-country contests also should be fostered.

Running downhill at breakneck speed on twisting trails that thread the trees like winding needles has always been dangerous; the best skier does not always emerge victorious in such races.

Slalom, on the other hand, calls for skill combined with speed. These events are also much better for spectators in that the entire course is always within view.

Sponsored by 16 ski clubs of Greater Boston, the gross proceeds will go to benefit a war relief fund. This event is going to be a sell-out, so do not delay. Buy your ticket now and aid in national defense.

War Catching Up With Celtic Court Squad

ATLANTA, Jan. 16 (AP)—War is catching up with the New York Celtics.

For years the famous professional basketball team barnstormed the nation, beating Father Time and 90 per cent of its opponents. For years the boys were a chummy little family, as easily identified as eggs, bacon and the morning paper. Now there are new faces—and there may be more before the season's cut.

Remember Dutch Denhert? He played with the Celtics from 1918 until his retirement in 1940. Davey Banks, present traveling manager, is a young buck who joined the team in 1925. Nat Hickey has been with the Celtics since 1929, and Paul Birch since 1935.

RESNICK ARMY BOUND

It's those new faces which upset Tom Humphreys, the Celtics' business manager since 1924. He was just getting to know Ash Resnick, who joined the squad in 1940—and now Resnick is about to take his talents to the Army.

As for Moe Dubalier and John Pelkington, newcomers this season, Humphreys still mistakes them occasionally for hitch-hikers. And Dubalier is just back from talking business with his New York draft board.

"It looks like they'll be drafted," says Humphreys. "If they are, we have two new men lined up—one in Pittsburgh and the other in Brooklyn. They'll fly in and join us wherever we happen to be."

Humphreys doesn't like changes. The Celtics are the Celtics, and they play to win. To lose, explains Humphreys, costs money in smaller crowds at ensuing games. He estimates the team plays 125 games between Dec. 1 and the end of March, loses perhaps 12 to 15 of them. Last year the club made 31 states.

TRANSPORTATION BIG WORRY

The crowds? About as good as last year, varying according to the size of the cities and the record of local teams. What really worries Humphreys is next year's transportation.

"We've got a brand-new station wagon," he says. "It ought to carry us through this year. After that—I don't know what we will do."

SCHOOLBOYS IN ACTION ON 2 RINKS

The Eastern Mass. League will hold the schoolboy hockey spotlight at the Arena this evening when it offers its sixth set of games with the first two teams taking the ice at 7 o'clock.

League games pair Natick and Hudson, Malden and Brookline. Inter-League games, last of the season incidentally, will bring together Dedham and Quincy, Lexington and Belmont.

As Dedham, the current league leader, plays Inter-League Quincy, second place Natick can knot Dedham for the lead by defeating Hudson.

The Natick-Hudson game will be hard fought. Hudson, the defending Eastern League champions, has participated in only two league games and has broken even. With high-scoring Frank Miccile leading the Natick offense, the red-shirted Hudson ice gladiators will have their troubles before the evening is over.

Malden and Brookline are both in search of their initial win of the semester.

Top fracas of the card, however, is that between Dedham and Quincy. Dedham has three league wins to its credit, while Quincy has participated in four 1 to 1 ties, losing only to Needham, 5-2, two weeks ago.

Belmont, way down in the Greater Boston circuit, hasn't the polish to knock over Lexington.

Stoneham vs. Wakefield Top Game at Garden

The Greater Boston Hockey League rolls into its sixth week of competition this evening at the Boston Garden with the usual two league games supplemented by a pair of inter-league affairs.

The first game, Cambridge Latin vs. Newton, starts at 7 o'clock. Other clashes bring together undefected Melrose vs. Arlington; Stoneham vs. Wakefield, Eastern Mass. representative, and Rindge vs. Needham of the Bay State loop.

Melrose High, defending New England champions, has its sights set on its sixth win of the campaign and should get it at Arlington's expense.

Cambridge Latin will have little trouble with lowly Newton. Cambridge's 1-1 record is misleading because the team has potential greatness in its lineup.

The Stoneham-Wakefield duel should provide the larger portion of the thrills. Wakefield has smashed home with victories in its last three starts after dropping its first two.

Both Rindge and Needham are entwined in three-way ties for first place in their respective leagues.

Gold Footballs For B.C. Gridders

A capacity crowd of Boston College alumni and rooters is expected at the University Club Sunday night when the Varsity Club tenders its annual dinner and testimonial to the varsity and freshman football squads.

More than 40 members of the Boston College varsity, which posted seven victories in 10 starts and wound up the campaign with a come-from-behind conquest of Holy Cross, will be present at the dinner. Freshman numeral winners to the number of 19 have also been invited.

Varsity lettermen will be presented gold footballs, engraved with a maroon "B" and the score (14-13) on the conquest of Holy Cross.

Mayor Maurice J. Tobin, Jim Britt, radio commentator, and Denny Myers, head coach, head the list of speakers. Stephen Mahoney of Cambridge, coach of football at Boston College in 1914 and '15, will be toastmaster, having replaced Eddie Gallagher, who is ill.

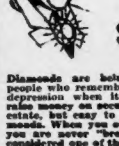
Andrews to Fight On Goodwin Card

Lowell's "Golden Boy," Dave Andrews, who swept all amateur 147-pound boxing crowns including the All-America and National, has been signed to fight a six-rounder with George Beckles on the Goodwin A. C. boxing show next Wednesday night at the Garden.

Valenti also tied up Al "Red" Priest, Cambridge, still another star with the pures, for another six-framer. Priest will face Oscar Suggs, veteran from Newport, R. I.

In the main bout Johnny Shkor, Brighton, newly-named New England heavyweight champion, will defend his title against Bill Weinberg, Chelsea.

The 175-pound N. E. title will be at stake in the 12-round semi-final with champion Italian Jack Dempsey, New Bedford, meeting Ted Lowry, New Bedford.



DIAMOND JIM SAYS:

Diamonds are being bought by people who remember the days of depression when it was hard to raise money on securities and real estate, but easy to do so on Diamonds. When you own a Diamond you are never "broke." They are considered one of the world's finest securities. I keep a-telling you to "Put your dimes into Diamonds." DARTMOUTH FRESHMEN ELIGIBLE FOR VARSITY

HANOVER N. H., Jan. 16 (AP)—Dartmouth stood registered today as the first of the "Ivy League" colleges to make freshmen eligible for varsity sports teams as a result of Athletic Director William H. McCarter's latest pronouncement.

While asserting that Dartmouth would not organize freshman teams for intercollegiate competition, with the exception of track, he explained the first year athletes would be permitted to compete with the college's varsity squads.

The freshman track schedule, arranged some time ago, will be completed before the final examinations start on May 1.

McCarter said that the freshmen's eligibility would effect the varsity baseball and lacrosse teams this spring, and he indicated they also would be available for varsity football next fall.

While competing on varsity teams, the athletic director added, the freshmen will be rewarded with their class numerals on the recommendations of their varsity coaches. He said actual competition would not be required in all cases.
